AGAIN BURNED OUT

William E. Rigg's Home Destroyed by Fire

THE HOUSE AND BARN OF WILLIAM RIGG IN FLAMES.

House, Barn and Shed in Billerica Street and Five Horses Consumed by Flames — Mr. Rigg Lost His Wife and His Home in South Lowell Explosion

The residence of William E. Rigg in Billerica street, Wiggville, together with the barn and outbuildings and their contents, were destroyed by fire shortly after three o'clock this morning. The fire, the cause of which is unknown, had gained such headway before it was discovered, that it was almost impossible to save anything and Mr. Rigg and his two sons, who were asleep in the house at the time, had a narrow escape from being burned to death.

when he was told that the fire had been out for nearly half an hour he felt relieved.

Property Wiped Out

Prior to the explosion which occurred in July, 1903, Mr. Rigg had a large house, barn and many outbuildings in Billerica street, the buildings being situated near the bank of the Concord river. The explosion, however, wiped out his entire property, nothing being left but a pile of debris.

The most unfortunate incident in connection with the explosion was that Mrs. Rigg was killed and the loss of the property could not be compensated with her loss.

After the explosion Mr. Rigg erected a one story structure which was used as a home by him and his two sons. The barn, which was about 30 by 40 feet, was three stories high and there were numerous outbuildings. In the barn were six horses, several furniture and pleasure wagons, harnesses, a big supply of hay, grain, etc., besides farming implements.

Fire Was Probably Set

When Mr. Rigg and his sons retired for the night everything was apparently secure. Shortly after three o'clock this morning one of the boys was awakened by the glare of flames through the window of his sleeping room. Jumping out of bed he saw that the barn and several of the outbuildings were afire and that the flames were rapidly eating their way towards the house.

He then hurried back to the house and assisted by his father, brother and neighbors who had been attracted to the scene attempted to save some of the property. The flames were so large and the heat so intense that it was almost impossible to get near any of the buildings and but few things were saved.

Firemen Worked Hard

Chief Hosmer and the fire department were soon on the scene, and despite the fact that they exerted every effort to save some of the buildings the fire had gained such headway that such a thing was out of the question. Long before the apparatus reached the scene of the fire the flames were leaping high into the air, and when the firemen arrived in Billerica street the house, barn and outbuildings were ablaze.

Five Horses Burned to Death

Strenuous efforts to save the six horses in the barn were made, but the attempts were fruitless, for five of them were burned to death and the sixth was burned so badly that in all probability it will have to be killed.

Practically the only things saved were several sleds which were in the yard.

While the firemen were working on the flames an alarm from box 515 at the corner of Woburn street and Concord avenue was pulled in by a young man who had seen the blaze and thought it was nearer to that box than it really was.

The Fire Was Set

Chief Hosmer is unable to state what caused the fire. Owing to the location many tramps have been found on the premises, and Mr. Rigg believes that the fire was set with malicious intent or else a tramp got into the barn and accidentally set the place afire.

When it was understood that tramps might have been in the barn the ruins were poked over by the firemen in an attempt to ascertain if any person had been burned but nobody was found.

Other Misfortunes

Shortly before the first fire at Mr. Rigg's home one of his sons was drowned in the Concord river. For a time he did the trucking for the Lowell Opera House and while in that employment met with two accidents. On one occasion he broke his arm and on another a point fell from the scenery gallery striking him on the head and inflicting severe injuries.

IS REVOLUTIONARY

USE OF INJUNCTIONS IN LABOR DISPUTE SO CHARACTERIZED

PHILADELPHIA, April 9.—"The modern use of the writ of injunction especially in labor disputes, is revolutionary and destructive of popular government," declared Andrew Furuseth of Washington, D. C., in a paper read today before the American Academy of Political and Social Science at its annual meeting. Various members and invited guests discussed the scope and limits of the injunction and among the speakers was Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor.

Mr. Furuseth, in discussing the alleged misuse of the equity power in the issuing of injunctions, said the labor unions contend that equity power and jurisdiction has been so extended that it is "endangering constitutional liberty, the personal liberty of the individual citizen."

"We have escaped from despotic government by the king," he continued. "We realize that after all he was but a man. Are we going to permit the growing up of a despotic government by the judges? Are not they also men?"

THE GRAFT CASES

Will Probably be Completed by Monday

PITTSBURG, April 9.—District Attorney Blakely believes that the grand jury now investigating councilmanic graft will complete its labor next Monday or Tuesday and by that time everyone implicated in the graft scandal will have been gathered in the public prosecutor's dragnet.

tax collector against whom another indictment was found yesterday charging him with bribery because of the confession of William Brand that Leslie had given him $1500 paid by the Columbia National bank in the city depository transaction, probably will not be forced to come into court and furnish bail. Leslie is already under heavy bonds on another indictment.

ART GALLERIES

Visited by Col. Roosevelt at Genoa

GENOA, April 9.—Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt had cause to be glad today that the crowds encountered had forced them to abandon their carriage drive yesterday, for since morning rain has fallen heavily, and had the two not reached here last night they would have had difficulty in getting through today.

This afternoon they will leave for Porto Maurizio, where, Kermit and Miss Ethel are due to arrive tonight. The former president and Mrs. Roosevelt spent the morning hours visiting art galleries, the old palace of the Doges and other places of interest. To escape a waiting they used a closed automobile placed at their disposal by American Consular Agent Smith.

PARIS ALL AGOG

PARIS, April 9.—As the date of Mr. Roosevelt's visit to France draws near the leading newspapers devote much space to the former president.

The Figaro publishes today a two column sketch of Mr. Roosevelt in which it lauds his wonderful energy, versatility, democracy and honesty and at the same time prints a review of his visit to Rome in which the opinion is expressed that his conduct in that city offered a striking proof of his tolerance, broadness of mind, independence of spirit and high sense of honor.

PLANS AT VIENNA

VIENNA, April 9.—Emperor Francis Joseph is in constant communication through court officials with the American embassy in regard to ex-President Roosevelt's plans. Today, His Majesty, sent a court officer to the embassy with the intimation that court carriages would be placed at the disposal of the Roosevelt party during the whole period of their visit in Vienna and that the royal boxes at the imperial opera and the court theatre would await their occupancy.

Governor and Adjutant-General of Oklahoma Fight

Friends Interfere and Take Revolver From General Canton — Trouble Resulted From Republican Committee Row

OUTSIDE, Okla., April 9.—The interference of friends probably prevented a physical clash last night between Governor Haskell and Adjutant General Canton of the Oklahoma National guard. A revolver was taken from General Canton but witnesses of the encounter say he did not draw it on the governor. At the request of friends of Mrs. Haskell a police officer was placed on guard near the governor's apartments in the Royal hotel during the night. Chief of police Mitchell says he will swear out a warrant for General Canton today.

The trouble between the governor and the adjutant general resulted from the republican committee meeting held yesterday. The first republican band had been engaged to furnish music for the occasion, it being the opening of Congressman McGuire's campaign. General Canton gave an order that the band should not appear in military uniform and forbade the use of the regiment's instruments. The band members discarded their uniforms, procured other instruments and later reappeared in the streets.

When Gov. Haskell's attention was called to the incident he sent Congressman McGuire a letter of apology and in it set forth that the order did not meet with his approval.

General Canton shortly before midnight sought Governor Haskell, witnesses declare, in the Royal hotel. The meeting occurred on a stairway landing near the governor's apartments. Witnesses testify to the violence of Adjutant General Canton's language but declare he did not draw a revolver. With emphatic gestures he is declared to have said: "I want you to understand you cannot countermand my orders; and if you do, you will pay for it."

J. M. Brooks, proprietor of the hotel and others rushed to the scene. Mr. Brooks took General Canton's revolver from him and later took the officer to his room.

WHY THEY FAIL

MOST PILE REMEDIES MISS THE CAUSE OF PILES

Disagreeable treatment with ointments, or suppositories usually fails to cure piles, and cutting them off will remove the cause. Such treatment only moderates the outside effects of the disease and fails to remedy the inside cause. The up-to-date doctors now use internal medicine, to free the circulation in the lower bowel, and so remove the cause.

Dr. Leubardt's Hem-Roid, the first and only guaranteed internal pile cure—in the form of tablets—cures any kind of piles. Sold by Carter & Sherburne, Lowell, Mass., $1 for large box, Dr. Leubardt Co., Station B, Buffalo, N. Y.

Last winter I was so weak from coughing that I had to stay in bed. A friend who came to see me advised me to try DR. GRADY'S PURE MALT AND RYE. I did not think it would help me, but as my friend knew of so many that had been cured by taking this medicine, I decided to give it a trial, and after taking three bottles I can honestly say that I am much stronger and have a very good appetite, and I have not coughed since taking DR. GRADY'S PURE MALT AND RYE. I also suffered with constipation and DR. GRADY'S LIVER PILLS helped me more than any other remedy. I will always have a good word for DR. GRADY'S PURE MALT AND RYE. Will be Treated in an Exemplary Manner

Woe be unto the out-of-town drunkard who finds his way into police court hereafter. Morning after morning the dock in police court has been filled with drunks, the majority of whom belong out of town. Judge Hadley has decided that in order to rid the city of visiting drunks that sentences to the state farm must be imposed and from now on the stranger who makes his second appearance before the court will not escape with a $5 fine or receive a short sentence to jail, but will be sent to Bridgewater.

Nearly all of the drunks in court this morning were from out of town and after James O'Donnell, who claims to belong in Burlington, Vt., had been heard Judge Hadley said: "We have drunkards enough of our own without entertaining outsiders. I am not going to have Lowell made the headquarters for drunks. After a first conviction for a drunkard who comes from out-of-town I am going to send him to the state farm."

All Drunken Offenders

All who appeared before Judge Hadley this morning were drunken offenders. George Wigley, who was an out-of-towner, was begging money, but he was known in this city and upon receiving a warning to leave in the future and go to work he was placed on probation.

James O'Donnell, Thomas McLaughlin, Timothy McCarthy, John Trainor and Andrew McGovern were each fined $5. Three first offenders were fined $5 each.

RUNELS ACCEPTS

Mayor's Appointment to Hall Commission

The following letter of acceptance of appointment to the Huntington hall commission by Mr. Henry Runels has been received by City Clerk Dandman and is self explanatory:

Warren, N. H., April 8, 1910.

Glad to hear that the Huntington hall commission has been organized and that you are its president. I am proud to have my name on the list of members and to be able to do my part in the work of the hall.

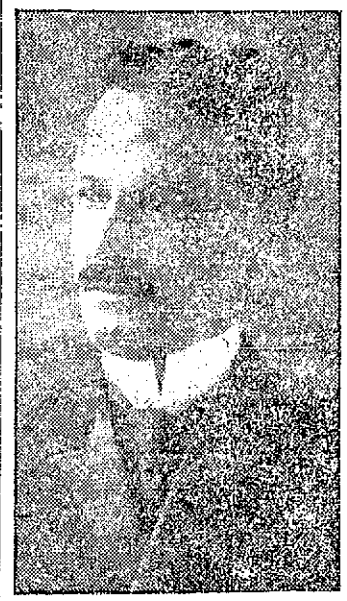

I am not desiring the position, I trust that all citizens are under some obligations to the city, and this coupled with the kindly way in which my appointment was made has induced me to lay aside personal reasons.

I expect to be in Lowell not later than Monday evening next, and as I have seen in the paper that the mayor desires to call a meeting of the hall board as early as possible, I write this now so that he may not be delayed, if such is his wish.

Yours respectfully,
Henry Runels.

STRUCK BY AUTO

Joseph Lamarche, a little boy who lives in Cheever street, was struck by an automobile yesterday afternoon at the corner of Moody and Allen streets and had a narrow escape from being badly injured. The child was coming from school at the time the accident happened. The automobile was passing through the street alongside of a big truck which hid it from the boy's view, the truck also hiding the view of the boy from the chauffeur. He was knocked down but after treatment by Dr. Tasse, he was revived and his injuries do not seem to be serious.

NEW SPEED RECORDS

Marked Opening of the Los Angeles Motordrome

PLAYA DEL REY, Cal., April 9.—The establishment of many new speed records yesterday marked the opening of the Los Angeles motordrome. Every world's record for a one mile track from one to one hundred miles was broken and five national speedway marks were lowered in the trials and the free-for-all contests.

New mile track records were expected for this is the first track ever raced on by motor cars. In addition to national records, new marks were also set in stock car events.

The racing was free from accidents. At the end of the 100 mile race a Dorris car, driven by Frank Seifert, turned turtle, but after the car had run into the paddock, Seifert's arms had become numb from the strain and the lost control of the wheel, he was not injured.

The first mile on the track was a record, Calab Bragg, an amateur, sent the P. I. A. T. 90, around in 37.56. George Robertson was next to be sent away and his big Simplex thundered after the 10 mile record. When he began chugging a few seconds it was apparent that the record would fall. He finished the miles in 6.31.57. Strang's mark at Atlanta for this distance was 7.01.94. Another world's mile track record and a national speedway mark went glimmering when Baracy Oldfield turned loose his 200-horse-power Benz for a mile, making the "five" part in 36.22 seconds. This car was never opened to the limit and it is expected that a still lower mark will be set. Ralph de Palma. In his 190-horse-power F. I. A. T., cut down the 15 mile mark to 8.15.42.

He was followed by Ren Kitchener, who cut the two mile record to 1.18.29 in a Darracq. The racing was unusually spirited and every contest was hard fought. The most sensational drive of the day was made by Oldfield. In a Knox, in the 10 miles race for cars with 451-600 cubic inches piston displacement. Getting away to a bad start, due to his position on the extreme inside, Oldfield was an eighth of a mile behind the flying Stoddard-Dayton, with Livingston up, in the first half mile. Hanshue, in the Apperson was running second. Oldfield began his race for the leaders and by the end of the fourth mile was in command, winning handsily in 7.51.2-5. The Apperson was second.

The five mile free-for-all proved a thriller, with De Palma in the P. I. A. T. 90 and Robertson, in the Simplex, racing head and head for almost the entire distance. The Italian won by a scant length in 3.56.40. The hundred mile race was a fight between Harroun's Marmon, and Seifert's Dorris. The cars were lapped for 95 of the 100 miles. At the end of 90 miles the Dorris crossed the line one foot ahead of the Marmon. Harroun drove away in the last five miles and opened up a

Will Have Public Reception in N. Y.

SOMERSWORTH, N. H., April 9.—John B. Pugsley, Colby '05, now principal of the Somersworth high school and widely known in New England as a baseball pitcher, will be on the pitching staff of the Lowell team in the New England league during the second half of the season. By the terms of his contract, which the Lowell manager, Mr. Pugsley will enter upon his duties June 25 and continue with the team until the close.

This will be his first appearance in a New England league uniform. Field Manager Smith of the Lowell team considers, however, that in Mr. Pugsley he has a star pitcher who will prove disappointing for the work he has been doing ever since his college days and before has been of a high order.

Mr. Pugsley has been in the game every season since he was a high school boy. He pitched all through his high school course and was captain of the team his senior year. At Colby he was a varsity pitcher four years and captained the team in his junior year. During his college summer vacations he pitched in the Maine league first for Rockport, then for Dover, Foxcroft and Hallowell.

After leaving college he pitched two seasons for the Slater A. A. of Webster, Mass., in the Southern Massachusetts league, and two seasons for the Woodstock, Vt., independent team. He returned home from Woodstock last fall in season to pitch the winning and deciding game for Somersworth on Labor Day in the grueling contest with Dover for the county and state championship.

Principal Pugsley has thus put in eight seasons of professional ball and has developed into a hard hitting and skilled pitcher. He is also a fast field player. At Colby he used to alternate with Pitcher Combs as shortstop and pitcher. He is a clever and a hard hitter and a good base runner.

In football Mr. Pugsley has also been prominent. He was captain and left end of the Colby team throughout his course and was its captain the last two years.

Mr. Pugsley is the son of George F. Pugsley of this city and was born here 26 years ago. He fitted for Colby in the Somersworth high school. Since his college graduation he has taught as principal for two years at Nichols academy, Webster, Mass.; two years at Black River academy, Ludlow, Vt., and the current year at Somersworth high, his alma mater. He will report for duty with Lowell late after the high school commencement.

Mr. Pugsley married last November Miss Marion B. McDonald of Ludlow, Vt., a pupil at the academy while he was there as principal.

FIVE MEN SAVED
Were Picked Up in Dismantled Dory

MARBLEHEAD, April 9.—The fishing schooner Maxwell, bound from Gloucester to Boston, picked up a dory containing Arthur W. Burdum, Fred A. Landry, William Derocher, Henry Levesque and John A. Bert of Salem about four miles outside of Half Way rock this afternoon and brought them into the harbor.

When picked up the dory was being driven out to sea by the northwest gale and the men were having a hard time keeping her afloat. According to Burdum, the men left Salem about 8 a. m. yesterday for a fishing trip in the bay. When off Bakers Island they were struck by a squall, which snapped off the mast. They rigged up a distress signal with the broken mast and a rubber coat, which was seen by the Maxwell.

ANDY MORRIS
MAKES FINE SHOWING AT SHORT NOTICE

BROCKTON, April 9.—Tim Sullivan of Newburyport, ordered to meet Jack Fitzgerald of Philadelphia in a 12-1 and bout at the Union A. C. in the future rink last night, failed to appear and it was announced that he mixed it up too fast Thursday with Sandy Ferguson and his training quarters in Natick and wasn't in condition to put up a battle.

Andy Morris, who defeated Al Kiblack at the Armory A. A. in Boston Tuesday night, was substituted for Sullivan and if any decision had been given by Referee DeBorty would have been the winner.

In the first few rounds Morris appeared slow and Fitzgerald's blows had plenty of steam, but after the ninth Fitzgerald dropped the pace and Morris sailed in, appreciating at will and finishing strong. It was a rugged fight with a lot of blighting that pleased the 600 members.

Young Hamilton of Taunton won from Young Bennett of Boston in a 6-round slugging match. Bennett started in strong, but Hamilton bored in steadily and slammed the Boston boy around to his heart's content. Al Delmont in Bennett's corner expressed disgust at Referee DeBorty's decision in no uncertain terms.

Young O'Hara of Whitman was stopped by Young Mulvihill of Worcester in the first round of the scheduled 6-round bout. Mulvihill sending over a sleep-producer after a shower of punches that dazed the Whitman novice.

NAVAL FIGHTING
BETWEEN TURKISH TROOPS AND CLANSMEN

LONDON, April 9.—The Standard's Constantinople correspondent reports renewed fighting between the Turkish troops and the clansmen, who are threatening private interests. The losses of the Albanians are unknown. The Daily Telegraph's Belgrade correspondent says that after fierce fighting the Albanians withdrew to the mountains pursued by the Turks, who had two officers and 40 soldiers killed. The correspondent also sends the rumor that the Turkish commander, Sheyk Pasha, was wounded.

Combination Coal and Gas

Crawford Ranges

The Crawford Gas Ovens are safe. They are lighted in a new way; there is no dangerous pilot light and explosions are impossible. This improvement is patented and very important.

The Damper is automatically opened by opening oven door to light the burners, which cannot be lighted until the door is opened.

In these Gas Ovens there is an extra set of burners at the top for broiling; a great advantage over the ordinary gas oven, insuring better broiling and great convenience.

The Oven Bottoms and Racks are cast iron, and the outer walls are triple—an interlining of asbestos between two sheets of iron, which assists to retain the heat.

The use of these Gas Ovens does not interfere in any way with the operation of the coal range—both can be used at the same time.

Double Oven above or Single Oven at end of range.

TIS OPENING DAY

Base Ball Fans Are in High Feather Today

NEW YORK, April 9.—With one eye on the weather and the other on the clock, thousands of baseball-ravenous New Yorkers put in the hours anxiously before the calling of play for the first time this season at the Polo grounds this afternoon. The game between Yale university and the Giants as the New York Nationals are still affectionately called offered the fans their first taste of professional baseball of any sort this year and despite the rather forbidding skies and the chill of an April cold spell they began flocking early towards the upper end of Manhattan Island. The cold didn't appear to lessen the agility of the players who came home from their long training trip in fine condition, Manager McGraw declared. The collegians were content of making an even better showing than usual against the New Yorkers and there was every promise of an interesting game.

In the midst of the preparations for the first game of the year on Manhattan Island the New York American league players reached town from Richmond, winding up the most successful southern trip they have ever had. They prepared for a game this afternoon across the river with the Jersey City eastern league team. Many New York followers of the highlanders planned to follow their favorites to the Jersey meadows and get a line on the teams 1910 form.

Open Day in Lowell

Today is opening day at Spalding park with the crack St. Anselm's college team as the opponents of the Lowell team. Hundreds of fans went to bed in gloomy mood last evening for hundreds of fans had inquired the weather conditions for today and had been informed that rain was probable. At sunrise this morning conditions indicated a cold day but during the morning the sun came out and warmed up the air and incidentally the fans. The St. Anselm's team accompanied by a large crowd of royal rosters arrived shortly afternoon and in a short time were on their way to the grounds.

DOVES PLAYED OVERTIME

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 9.—It took 11 long innings of nerve-racking baseball to bring the Doves away a winner yesterday afternoon in the game with the Colonels, and they were somewhat lucky at that, for the last run was pushed over the pan by a base on balls, when Richter, the Louisville recruit, took a balloon ascension and could not find his parachute. The final score was 5 to 4 and the game was a sea-saw affair, Boston taking the lead three and Louisville, then tying up.

BOSTON WHITEWASHED

NASHVILLE, Tenn., April 9.—Boston's farewell game in the Sunny South was one liable to be long remembered. Red Sox, for the Nashville team yesterday afternoon not only defeated the American league pennant aspirants handsily, but applied a liberal dose of whitewash as well, and, greatly to the enthusiasm of Nashvillians, the big league visitors struggled through all those harrowing nine innings without once being able to get a man across the plate. The score: Nashville 6, Red Sox 0.

Yesterday's Manchester Union says: All the St. Anselm's ball players are at the college again and have made their first appearance in uniform. Glass work was resumed at the college on Thursday, but the members of the team came ahead of time, among the early men to report being Roy and Arthur Foye, Jim Hurley, Capt. Whelan, Jack Lahey, Flanagan, Delaney, Harrigan and Walter Prester. Practice has been resumed in earnest and the boys expect to make a good showing at their first game which will be played with the Lowell New England league team.

It is expected that a large number of Manchester fans will see the game in Lowell.

EDWARD GARDNER DEFEATED POGGENBURG

NEW YORK, April 9.—Plenty of balk line nursing was seen last night in the ninth game of the national amateur billiard tournament at the Hamilton club, Brooklyn, Edward W. Gardner of Mont Clair, N. J., national champion in 1902, beat J. Ferdinand Poggenburg of the Liederkranz club of this city, the 1904 champion, 4 to 280.

PICATO WON

EARNED DECISION FROM JHONNY MARTO

NEW YORK, April 9.—Frank Picato of California earned a decision last night from Johnny Marto of this city in 10 hard rounds of fighting before the National Sporting club of America. Picato was the aggressor throughout and won by an ample margin. Only the second and sixth rounds leaned toward Marto.

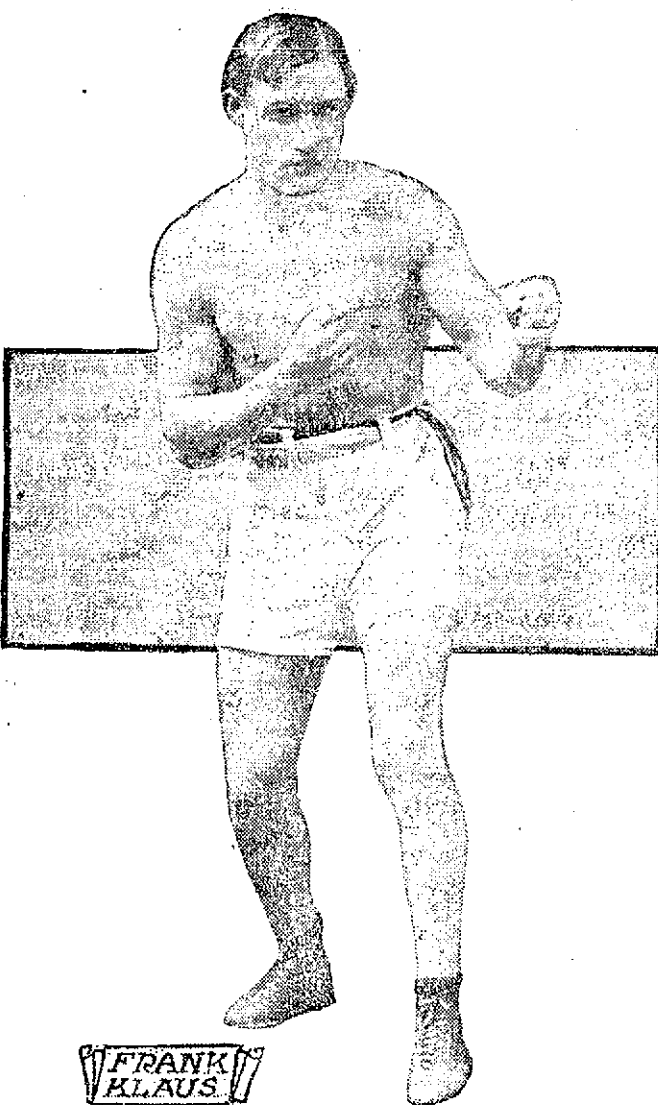

At the opening session of the New Empire Athletic club of Harlem, Tommy Murphy outpointed Battling Hurley of Passaic, N. J., in 10 rounds. To the surprise of the ringside, however, Hurley held up his end well and was cheered as he left the ring for his aggressive courage.

MAP OF COL. ROOSEVELT'S EUROPEAN TOUR AND HIS ROYAL ENTERTAINERS

PARIS, April 9.—The tour of Colonel Roosevelt and his family is the leading topic of discussion in all parts of Europe. His reception in Rome was only the beginning of a long series of dinners, lectures and receptions that will be extended to him by the crowned heads of Europe. The program of Col. Roosevelt calls for nine state dinners, to be given by as many rulers of Europe's leading countries. The czar will not meet the former president of the United States, nor is King Alfonso of Spain down on the official list of calls to be made.

WESTERN SPORTS HAIL FRANK KLAUS AS COMING CHAMPION

CHICAGO, April 9.—Fight fans the country over are now keeping close tabs on the work of Frank Klaus, who gave Stanley Ketchel, the middleweight champion, more than he bargained for in Pittsburgh recently. In fact, since his draw with Ketchel, Klaus is quite a drawing card, and every one interested in pugilism is anxious to see him box. Although Ketchel was not in the best of condition for the recent bout and injured his hand early in the battle, Klaus' business-like way of fighting pleased the critics to such an extent that many of them predict that with proper handling he may some day wear the middleweight crown. Klaus is to hook up with Billy Papke, the Illinois Thunderbolt, in a twenty-five round bout to be held in San Francisco May 14. The pair fought a six round draw some months ago, and it promises to be one of the most interesting bouts staged at the Armory A. A. for a long time, will arrive in Boston tomorrow morning and finish his training at the club. It will be a contest between a skilful and a rugged boxer. Though Klaus is being touted as the coming holder of the title in his class, a great many of the local fans are wagering that Gardner will at least get the decision over him in their 12-round bout. Gardner is certain to be in the finest shape for the contest and the same can be said of Klaus, who realizes that a defeat now means a bad setback for him.

The two preliminaries, with Frank Madoli in one and Alf Lynch in the other, will be interesting affairs.

CONTEMPT OF COURT

Sugar Trust Was Ordered to Pay Fine of $500

NEW YORK, April 9.—Judge Lacombe of the United States circuit court yesterday adjudged the American Sugar Refining company in contempt of court and fined the corporation $500. The contempt consisted in the failure to respond to the subpoena calling for the production of two books of account before the federal grand jury, yesterday.

The company based its refusal to respond to the subpoena on the ground that there were legal and constitutional questions involved and that it proposed to appeal from the order of the court directing the submission of the books.

AT ST. PETER'S

FORTY HOURS DEVOTION WILL OPEN TOMORROW

Tomorrow will be the regular communion day of St. Peter's Holy Name society and indications point to the biggest attendance since the quarterly communion idea was inaugurated.
The meeting will be held at 8 o'clock in the hall of the church, where the members will be seated. The church seats will be reserved. The Holy Name choir under the direction of Mr. James E. Donnelly will render a program with Mr. Kelly at the organ. After mass the members will repair to Lincoln hall where breakfast will be served, followed by an entertainment with Mrs. Richard Lyons as master of ceremonies. Rev. Fr. Burns, spiritual director, has expressed himself as desirous of having every member in attendance on Sunday next, for not only is it the regular communion day of the society, but it affords an opportunity to make the "Easter Duty."

THREE DOLLARS PER YEAR. TWENTY-FIVE CENTS PER MONTH

The sworn daily average circulation of The Lowell Sun for the year 1909 was 16,828

Sworn to by John H. Harrington, proprietor, Martin H. Reidy, business manager, and Alfred Pilote, pressman, of The Sun, before me, January 1, 1910. J. JOSEPH HENNESSY, Notary Public.

This is by far the largest average circulation of any newspaper in Lowell.

THE POLICE PENSION LAW.

The action of the police board in retiring five men on pension has been unfavorably commented upon in some quarters, and the board is criticized as if it were responsible for the law. The law is on the statute books and it is the duty of the board to administer that and all other laws that apply to the department. The men retired had reached a stage at which they were incapacitated for ordinary police duty. They might serve as watchmen but are not needed in that capacity. The board of police, desiring to keep up the efficiency of the department, felt it necessary to retire them, and in so doing the board simply did its duty to the men and to the city. Two good men would have been worth any four of them during the past few years. If there is any ground for criticism as a result of retiring officers unfit for duty, it should be directed to the men who passed the police pension law in the legislature and the men who subsequently as members of the city council adopted it.

It is possible that the pension list may in time become a burden to the city; but the only remedy for that is to repeal or modify the law. The Sun never favored the present law and believes now as formerly that a pension should be paid only on account of permanent disability resulting from injury sustained in the service. There is here an object lesson in the necessity of selecting conservative men for the city council as otherwise the adoption of permissive acts of this kind may seriously affect the financial condition of our city in the future.

THE POLICE BOARD APPOINTMENT.

To fill the vacancy soon to occur in the police board by the expiration of Mr. Stearns' term, Mayor Meehan has appointed John J. Mullane, a life-long friend, an ex-councilman and a young man whose capability cannot be questioned.

It is always the case when such appointments are announced that there will be criticism from some quarter. It will be said that the mayor might have made a better choice, that such and such a man would make a better police commissioner. The people who talk this way do not know Mr. Mullane, and yet they are setting their judgment against that of the mayor who does know him and who can vouch for his honesty, his ability and fitness for the position.

It is not always possible nor is it desirable to appoint to public office only those men who by long experience as public servants have demonstrated their honesty and capability. Such a policy would bar new men, would give us a lot of official barometers and build up a privileged office-holding aristocracy.

Public sentiment as expressed by individual criticism and as voiced by some newspapers is not infrequently wrong in condemning such appointments before the officials have had a chance to prove their worth. Those who remember the appointment of the late Tom Farrell as chief of the fire department may recall that he was ridiculed in the press as wholly unfitted for the position, but yet Lowell has never had his equal as fire chief. When Mr. Boulger was appointed to the police board, we remember also that the appointment was criticized in certain quarters, but yet nobody can deny that Mr. Boulger has made a good and capable commissioner.

We do not hear any severe criticism of the mayor's choice of Mr. Mullane but we mention these facts to show that in such cases a good deal of unjust criticism is leveled at the appointee. We recognize the fact that Mr. Mullane is honest and otherwise well qualified to fill the office in the most satisfactory manner. That is all that can be expected of any police commissioner, and we wish him all possible success in his new office.

TO BRIDGE EAST MERRIMACK STREET.

In a community in which the idea of "the city beautiful" seems to have taken root, it is natural that some surprise should be felt at the proposition of the Massachusetts company to connect their mills on opposite sides of East Merrimack street by two overhead bridges. If it were proposed to bridge a back street the public might not regard the proposition with such dismay; but to bridge over one of the main thoroughfares in full view of the principal square and the business centre of the city is certainly one that cannot be regarded as in accord with the prevailing ideas of public progress or municipal aestheticism. Where the big billboards are tabooed, where overhead wires are ordered underground, and where all street obstructions in front of buildings have been outlawed, how shall we regard a project for mill bridges spanning a public street?

Of course the people of Lowell do not want to block the progress of the Massachusetts company or any other enterprising company for that matter; but the company should remember that the matter of bridging over one of the principal streets is a most extraordinary undertaking. The building ordinance would not permit it, so that the question will probably have to go before the city council for decision if the company adheres to the plan.

A bridge or bridges of the kind proposed would be a menace to public safety, and if at any time a lump of ice or snow, a board of any other part of the structure, loosened by the storm, fell to the street the result might be very serious. Then, too, if it caught fire the whole structure might come down to block the street or spread the fire to other buildings.

The Massachusetts company is building a big storehouse on Bridge street and a big mill on East Merrimack street. These buildings will not improve the appearance of the streets on which they are located. To go further and throw two bridges across East Merrimack street would make matters still worse. We do not believe that there will be any objection to a tunnel under the street to connect the mills on opposite sides. The privilege of constructing such a tunnel, we believe, is as much as the company should ask, for even that may inconvenience the city at some future day.

The tunnel would be safe, and better for all concerned and unlike the overhead bridge it could never be injured by storm or fire. We believe the engineering difficulties of constructing a tunnel to serve the same purpose as the bridges are not insuperable. The tunnel might cost more but its solidity and permanency would warrant the expenditure.

SEEN AND HEARD

It was at a hotel in the eastern part of the state and several traveling men were sitting in the office, when in came a stranger, evidently himself a traveling man, but not the ordinary runner, content to mind his own business and let others do the same. Oh no, this man was one of those men who enter a room with a curious expression, a business expression, and no sooner was he seated than he began to look around with a question mark in his eye. Shifting just the other side of him, was a large, well dressed, conservative appearing man, quiet almost retiring (for a runner), and the newcomer seemed to fight shy of asking him a question, but he shortly went the rounds of the other men, and having no more words to say, he turned to the man at his side and said in a most insinuating voice, "Ah, dry goods?" The other man never winked an eye, but answered quite as briefly, "No, circus." Now in order to appreciate the joke, you should see the man. The newcomer was a very tall, thin, and began at once to make comments upon the size of the town and the lack of interest in anything of this kind, saying he should really think that it would pay to show him such a small place. "Oh yes," said the other, "you should see the people turn out to Barnum and Baileys, or to Fourpaugh's. The men who were sitting around were so impressed as Americans that they were almost as American as Indians, the man who was supposed to represent the 'world's greatest' was as serious as a judge, and that other man who was afflicted with an over developed bump of curiosity, just swallowed it all and if you knew the town and the man, you would realize what a very stupid man he must have been to take it in as he did and he was from New York too, but he much used to the ways of Mainiacs.—Portland Express.

LINES FROM AN UNCLAIMED RIB

O, unknown man whose rib I am,
Why don't you come and see me?
A lonely, homesick rib I am,
That would with others be!
I want to wed—
There now, it's said!
(I won't deny and fib)—
I want my man to come at once and claim
His rib!

Some men have thought that I was theirs,
But only for a bit;
We found out soon it wouldn't do;
We didn't seem to fit.
There's just one place,
The only space
I'll fit—(I will not fib)
I want my man to come at once and claim
His rib!

O, don't you sometimes feel a lack,
A new rib needed there?
It's I. Do come and get me soon
Before I have gray hair!
Come get me, dear!
I'm homesick here!
I want—(and I'll not fib)—
I want my man to come at once and claim
His rib!

skits, "The Pianophiles," comprising nine expert pianists, pleasing vocalists, clever dancers and unique entertainers. In the scenic setting of an elaborate piano saloon on Fifth Avenue, New York, four clerks and a department manager are discovered, killing time in the absence of customers, by playing on five pianos at the same time. While they are thus engaged, in walk four young ladies, dressed in the height of fashion, who arrange in song, that they are on a shopping tour, and have dropped in to buy a piano. Waited on by the four clerks, who, in the midst of their song, play on various pianos, an infectious catchy vocal selection is rendered, rivaling in originality and tunefulness of melody "Floradora" itself. Then, scattering himself at the grand piano which occupies the centre of the stage, the manager plays an overture, which is participated in by the entire company, a man and woman seated at each piano. The effect of nine pairs of hands playing on five pianos can better be imagined than described. The musicians are all finished pianists and singers, chosen from the best musical circles of New York and Boston, and the quartet of stunning girls is said to be the prettiest in vaudeville. Their gowns and hats are the last word in fashions, and come from a prominent Fifth Avenue firm. James S. Devline and Miss Mae Ellwood are most entertaining in their comedietta, "The Girl From Yonkers." The heroine is a girl. Rattles, when surprised in a bachelor's apartment, pretends that she is a simple maiden from the country, who has wandered into the wrong apartment by mistake. She succeeds in captivating the gay bachelor by her "taking ways" and quietly annexes his valuables while he is making love to her. When she finally makes her exit, she takes even his overcoat with her. The sketch is brightly written and splendidly acted. A novel and picturesque act is given by Samson and Conia, in a Russian peasant character sketch, including the typical songs and dances of Russia. There is also some clever acrobatic work, and an exhibition by two well-trained, trick dogs. Roland Carter & Co. offer "Vacation Days," a comedy, in which a man is hilariously original and framed in a novel setting that represents a prison interior, the characters being the warden and two prisoners. George Baron, the favorite English character singer, will render a number of his most popular song successes. The Lesons, Australian jugglers, are astonishing performers, their program being replete with new and startling feats. Kessler and Dunn are a first class team. Their songs are catchy, and they are marvelously skilful dancers. The show closes with a series of the latest moving pictures.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

The excellence of the bill at the Academy of Music this week has drawn crowds to that cosy playhouse, which proves that the patrons appreciate a good thing when they see it. And the management will keep up the good work by presenting on Monday, Cornelia Roberts & Co. in a great comedy sketch of single life, and George Nagle in a little bit of everything. Mae Bagshaw will return with some of the songs that have made her so popular, together with new moving pictures including a biograph. Admission, 5 and 10 cents.

THEATRE VOYONS

"The Flower of the Ranch," the feature at the Theatre Voyons today, is one of the most pleasing western subjects shown in a long time. Its plot deals with cowboys, a wealthy easterner and the flower of the country. During the story a lively chase ensues between the cowboys and the Easterner in his auto and of course the cowboys win. The Biograph subject is also taken in the far west and its scenic settings are a decided novelty. Tomorrow an unusual concert will be given, the pictures being the very best and latest released for Sunday showing and the songs will sing and just the kind that please. On Monday the feature will be a very interesting Picture Film d'art.

FOREIGN TRADE

IN AUTOMOBILES AMOUNTS TO $1,000,000 A MONTH

The foreign trade of the United States in automobiles now amounts to a million dollars a month, or 12 million dollars per annum, of which sum about 4 millions are imports and 8 millions exports. Ten years ago the trade in automobiles was not of sufficient value to justify the bureau of statistics of the department of commerce and labor in making a separate record of either the imports or exports, the few automobiles entering or leaving the country being included under the miscellaneous class of "All other articles." In July, 1901, however, the bureau began to record the exports, which in the fiscal year 1902 amounted to about 1 million dollars, and since that time the value of automobiles and parts thereof exported to foreign countries has been in round terms 30 million dollars, which total about 25 millions has developed in the 5 years ending with December, 1909, with a prospect that the fiscal year 1910 will show an export record of fully 8 million dollars.

In imports the record was not established until July, 1905, when the total of automobiles and parts imported to the United States was $1,457,124. In the fiscal years 1906 and in 1907 over five millions, but falling below that figure in succeeding years, making the total importation for the 5 years ending December, 1909, for which a record exists about 18 million dollars of automobiles and parts thereof. The shipments of automobiles and parts thereof to Alaska, Hawaii and Porto Rico are not included in the figures quoted above, but amount in the past 5 years to about 2 million dollars, making the total value of the automobiles passing in and out of ports of the United States in the past 5 years about 45 million dollars.

The imports are chiefly from France, Italy, Germany and the United Kingdom, and the exports to practically every country in the world, though the largest number go to Canada, the United Kingdom, Mexico and Australia. The number sent to Canada in the fiscal year 1909 was 1230, valued at $1,457,124. To France 59 machines, valued at $1,613,914; to France 201 machines, valued at $344,632; to Mexico 260 machines, valued at $282,462; and to Australia 127 machines, valued at $81,426. The prices of those sent to European countries are, as a rule, higher than that of the machines sent to Canada, Mexico and Australia, the average price of those sent to France being over $5000 each, according to the prices and numbers of machines reported to the bureau of statistics; those to England average nearly $3000 a piece; those to Canada about $1200 and Mexico about $1400 each; and those to Australia less than $500 each.

The total number of automobiles exported in the fiscal year 1909 was, according to the bureau of statistics figures, 3134, valued at $5,337,021, an average value of about $1700 for a machine, and the number imported 1624, valued at $2,905,391, showing also an average of about $1700 for each machine. The distribution of automobiles extends to all parts of the world, the number of countries named by the bureau of statistics as destination of automobiles exported in the fiscal year 1909 being not less than 60 and including India, China, Dutch East Indies, Japan, Canary Islands, Egypt, French and British Africa, South American countries, Central American States, West India Islands, Gibraltar and Portugal. The figures for the calendar year are larger and show also higher prices, the number of machines exported in the calendar year 1909 being 3588, and the stated value being $6,889,031, an average of nearly $1900, these figures including only the shipments of machines to foreign countries, and not including the shipments to our non-contiguous territory, or the parts of machines which are included in the grand total stated below in comparing our own exports of automobiles with those of other countries.

France leads the world as an exporter of automobiles, with the United States second in rank. Statistics compiled from the official publication of the countries named show that the exports of vehicles of this class in the latest year for which details are at hand were: from France, in 1908, $24,569,000; the United States, in the calendar year 1909, $8,867,000; Italy, in 1908, $5,333,000; and Germany, in 1908, $3,031,000.

"Silver Mine King" Dies
in WashingtonConsidered by Committee Last NightFr. McNamara Will Establish in Pelham

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 9.—Thomas F. Walsh died at his home here at 11:30 o'clock last night.

Death was due to a growth in his lungs, the result of an injury received years ago when Mr. Walsh was a miner in the west. Although the "silver mining king," as Mr. Walsh was known, had been ill for the past three months, the end came suddenly and peacefully. He died in his palatial Massachusetts avenue home here, whither he had returned several weeks ago after a tour through the south in search of health. He was surrounded when the end came by the immediate members of his family, his wife, daughter and son-in-law, Edward E. McLean and by three physicians, Dr. Mitchell of this city and Doctors Guthrie and Finney of Johns Hopkins university. He will be buried in Rock Creek cemetery, in this city, by the side of his only son, who lost his life in an automobile accident in New York, R. I., several years ago. At his own request the funeral ceremonies will be simple. They will be conducted by the Masonic order and will be held Sunday afternoon.

Thomas F. Walsh was born in Ireland in 1851. He was educated in the public schools and early in life was apprenticed to a wheelwright. When he was 19 years old he came to the United States, going almost directly to Colorado, where he made his fortune in the development of mines.

In 1879 he was married to Miss Carrie B. Reed. He was named as one of the commissioners to the Paris exposition in 1900 and had been otherwise signally honored by his government.

Mr. Walsh, always a genial host and fond of company, was a member of a number of clubs and belonged to several scientific societies. In the immediate past he developed a keen interest in aviation and was the leading figure in the effort to have the international aviation meet held in the national capital.

The tragic death of his only son came some years ago, was a most severe shock to Mr. Walsh and one which he never fully recovered. The boy was killed in an automobile accident, which injured his sister, now Mrs. Edward McLean.

A son born to his daughter recently has been called, on account of the immense wealth on both paternal and maternal sides, the "Hundred Million Dollar Baby."

The committee on sewers, Alderman Dexter, chairman, met last night at city hall, and gave a hearing to a number of petitioners. Following the hearing a business meeting was held and the following recommendations were made.

Jackson, Palmer and others, that a sewer be laid in Cumberland road from Fisher street to Farmland road.

William D. Brown and others that a sewer be laid in Front street from the present sewer westerly to Courtney lane.

Richard Sykes and others, that a sewer be laid in Rockingham street from Lawrence street to Roger street.

Arnold B. Winters and others that a sewer be laid in Bond street from Stevens street westerly about 170 feet.

P. J. Byrne and others that a sewer be laid in Plummer avenue from East Merrimack street to Andover street.

The committee considered at considerable length the petition of James and Humphrey O'Sullivan for the lowering of the Worthen street sewer. It was agreed that this sewer should be lowered, but in the absence of an estimate as to cost, it was voted to lay the petition on the table.

Edna C. Abbott and others who petitioned for an extension of sewer assessments in Fruit street were given leave to withdraw.

ARIEL C. THOMAS

Chosen Agent of New Bedford Mills

Ariel C. Thomas has been appointed agent of the Grinnell mills at New Bedford. Mr. Thomas has accepted and will take up his duties at once. Mr. Thomas was for many years connected with the Boot mills of this city and is a thorough mill man.

Mr. Thomas before he came to Lowell as agent of the Grinnell mills was agent of the Clinton Manufacturing Co.'s plant at Woonsocket. While in this city he became ill and went to his home in East Blackstone. He has regained his health in the two years that he has spent at his summer home.

Rev. John J. McNamara, for more than seven years assistant to Rev. Fr. Schofield, pastor of St. John's church, North Chelmsford, and of St. Catherine's church, Grantville village, Westford, has accepted the position of the new parish created in the New Hampshire diocese by Bishop Guerin.

Chelmsford, Jan. 2, 1903, and has been in continuous service in that parish since that time. The parish of which Fr. Schofield is pastor, includes nearly all the villages of Chelmsford and the town of Westford, Dunstable, Tyngsboro and Carlisle to Concord railroad station. Fr. McNamara has been a willing worker under Fr. Schofield and is popular with members of St. John's parish.

VAHEY TO STICK

Will Not be Withdrawn
From Contest

BOSTON, April 8.—James H. Vahey will not be withdrawn from the contest for the democratic nomination for governor unless it can be pointed out to him that there is a greater demand for another candidate.

This is practically the attitude that he will take in a formal statement on his position to be issued today.

Mr. Vahey will state that it is not his purpose to wreck the democratic party by holding out against Congressman-elect Eugene N. Foss or any other candidate. He proposes to make it plain, however, that in his opinion no other candidate nominated by the party can possibly win except with his support.

Mr. Vahey has told his friends that Mayor Fitzgerald has shown a sudden change of front on the gubernatorial situation since he was re-elected. He says that before the city election Mayor Fitzgerald had told everybody that in his opinion that he, Vahey, should have the nomination.

The candidate for governor stated to a reporter that he would be perfectly willing to sit down in conference with the democratic leaders of the state and discuss the situation.

It is about time, though, said he, that the democrats of the state be given a chance to say whom they want for governor. I don't think that any one leader has a right to say who should be the choice of the party for governor.

Beginning May 29 next, mass will be celebrated in a hall in Pelham, N. H., at 9 a. m. Sundays by Rev. Fr. McNamara and at 10:30 a. m. Sundays he will celebrate mass at Canobie lake.

Fr. McNamara was born near Glasgow, Scot., but came with his parents to Rochester, N. H., when a boy. He was educated in the public and parochial schools in Rochester and later studied in the preparatory school of the Christian B. there in that city. He was graduated from St. Anselm's college, Manchester, N. H., in 1897. He pursued his philosophical and theological studies in the Grand seminary in Montreal and was ordained as a priest in December, 1902, in St. James' cathedral, Montreal, by Bishop Ennault of Valleyfield, Que.

Great Diversity of Style In Spring Hats

wreath of small roses and pendant lilies of the valley. More trimming is used on the spring hats than the winter shapes displayed, and the hat of handsome material and artistic line with almost no trimming on it that we enjoyed the most season has been employed by the hat with more liberal trimmings. Flowers, tulle, lace, satin, velvet and ribbon with aigrets and ostrich plumes are the principal hat adornments. Even on tailored creations the

It is quite amusing to go about the smart millinery shops and gather up inside "tips" concerning the season's styles. One artist will confidentially tell you that "the hats displayed in the general showrooms, the big, eccentric models, are not our best hats, but are merely put out to catch the attention of the crowd. Small hats are the shapes we are showing our exclusive patrons." And another "head milliner" will just as confidently inform you that "there is a wide diversity in styles. High and low crowns hobnob together, and picture hats are seen side by side with fantastic turban shapes or the inverted bowl creation." Millinery doctors disagree quite as positively as do the sons of Eshelaphus.

As a matter of fact, big hats, little hats, hats of all periods, hats of all materials, hats of many shapes—all these are included in the new creations, and everything points to a season of variety, originality and charm in the hat world. While the turban cap of oriental swaths and the toque are having things very much their own way, the large round brimmed chaparrin is not being ignored. There are many persons who do not feel that they look well in afternoon toilets unless they wear a big shape, and these will be satisfied in the present melange as well as the woman who is tired of the inconvenient shapes and wishes something more comfortable.

But most of the new models are fascinating, those turned up sharply at the side or back being usually becoming and a decided contrast to the peach hatter of last spring. We have, though, with us the close fitting bowl shape. It is trying, but where it can be worn it is absurdly fetching. The new shape is dubbed by the saleswomen as marsh-room, but they are more accurately described as bowl shape. Fancy, if you can, a certain coquettish type of girl wearing a "bowl" shape in one of the light soft braids in an attractive color trimmed on the left side with a cluster of flowers. If the material have the right French stamp you will call up a delightful vision. Printed cottons have entered the millinery field. In Persian colorings and designs these cottons are used for making the "bowl" shaped hats just described. For wear with morning frocks a model of this kind would be charming covered with cool green and white or buff and white cotton.

The hat with the flyaway brim is a novelty introduced in headgear. It is the left side of the brim that flares to the winds above a moderate sized crown. These shapes are in straw, faced with velvet, and are worn well down over the ears. The only trimming is a bow of velvet or a many looped bow of wired malines. A very good hat of the flyaway order is of white straw bound with black velvet with a black malines bow in front. The plus to be used are of jet.

Satin covered crowns combined with straw brims are another freakish idea exploited this season—a wide brimmed shape whose crown is covered smoothly with satin, while the drooping or rolling brim is of leghorn or braid. But of this type seen at an exclusive establishment has a wide leghorn brim rolling a little at the left front and drooping elsewhere. The bowl shaped crown is covered with a mignonette green satin, and at the left side two long spikes of gladiolus are posed quill fashion.

By the way, the gladiolus is a recent addition to the list of artificial flowers, and where stiff floral effects are to be desired it serves its purpose well. There is a great deal of Greek net used for making crowns and hat trimmings. This net is newer and smarter than the more plebeian tulle or malines, which bids fair to be overdone. The Greek net is lovely in all tints and in black richly touches up some of the best creations. Many of the Greek net choux are placed at the back of the hats, standing up with the assistance of wire, though the effect is beautifully soft. The tan straw model among the illustrations that turns up in the back has a fetching bow of coral colored Greek net.

The French sailor pictured is also a good little model with its upstanding loop adornment of ribbon and its quill and wing does not figure prominently. Smart little tailored shapes of rough straw that turn up directly in front or at one side are trimmed with big velvet or taffeta bows. The "Chantecler" hat is having a certain vogue among a certain class, but the millinery world is not taking the rooster decoration seriously. Still, the colorings of the rooster's plumage, the watermelon pinks and vivid reds, are influencing fabrics both in the dressmaking and millinery realm. The new spring hats are worn as flat on the head as ever. They generally conceal the hair, which is accomplished quite easily since the hair is worn flat against the head, completely outlining the head except at the back, where a calotte is introduced, and then the effect is something of the Psyche knot, though without the Psyche, the strands being wound about a form placed at the back of the head, giving that silhouette. There is a new veil, called by satirists the tea-and-toast veil, because the weave has a large diamond shaped opening that may be stretched to leave the mouth entirely free to partake of liquids. It is no uncommon sight to see women in smart restaurants and at afternoon teas drinking tea and nibbling toast and cake through the new veil with apparent comfort.

How to Make Money

A Practical Experiment In Which a Talent For Embroidery Was Made to Pay

THERE was a distinct need of making money," said a clever girl recently, "and the only gift I possessed was the most difficult to turn to account. I had only the gift of the needle used in the manufacture of art needle-work."

"I knew, however, that I could design, and I possessed a certain originality—eye for color and an intuition in working things out."

"I pressed my sisters into service, and we worked like beavers for several months. Then we determined to give a little exhibition of our needle craft and to invite every friend, acquaintance and 'barely acquaintance' we possessed to come and see them."

"It is doubtful whether our scheme would have been a success without the assistance of a friend, an art student, who had been studying in Munich, who most luckily came to stay with me a month before the exhibition. She came fresh from having helped in a kind of arts and crafts exhibition in Germany, so spoke as one with authority, and she did seem to have grasped the business side of the question in a clever manner. 'The Germans teach us a lot,' she remarked while looking over my stock of finished work, 'but most of all to be practical.'"

"We were very much amused at her use of the word and thought the English equivalent would express it quite well, but as time went on the word took on a higher meaning."

"When examining some little squares into which I had put some of my best work my friend from Munich asked, 'But what on earth are these?'"

"A little hurt at her evident want of appreciation, I answered, 'This, you might see, is a spider's web on a thistle.'"

"Yes, of course," she interrupted. "I am not blind, but what are they for? As they are at present they are not practical."

"To be made practical all of the little squares were fashioned into workbags, theater bags and pin cushions and the larger ones into trimmings for gowns, etc."

"At last it came time to send out the cards of invitation, and we settled on two afternoons in a certain week for our exhibition. We cleared what we could out of the living room, so that nothing should detract from the interest of the work. The needle craft objects were grouped together about the room on tables and wherever was space. We had small labels tacked conspicuously to each piece of work, with the price attached."

"Our invitations had been sent in a very broadcast way. We had really asked whoever there was to come, for we considered it a business and not a social event, but to make things sociable we served tea and cakes. At the sight of the first strangers we were seized with an unaccountable but strong desire to break into wild laughter, it seemed so ridiculous to be taken so seriously, but half an hour afterward we were too busy for any more hysterical inclinations, as our neighbors came in numbers, and soon our rooms were filled with people. And they bought every article and what was better, gave orders for lots more."

Society Awheel

Roller Skating Parties a Spring Diversion

SMART New York society has set the pace for roller skating parties. An affair of this kind which is to be given shortly is an "emigrant party," with the host and hostess in a "barge office" reception room, a customs inspector in attendance and guests in peasant costumes of all nationalities. The peasant feature was selected because it meant that the frocks could be conveniently short for skating, while the bright colors would mingle gayly while the guests whirled to the strains of national airs. The customs part of the program was introduced by one of the prospective guests, as the date of the party happens on the tenth wedding anniversary of the host and hostess. It is the intention of the guests to smuggle in presents through the customs. As dancing is not feasible on roller skates beyond the lancers or some square dance, races and gymkhana games, with prizes, are part of the program, and the hostess is trying to discover some "stunt" characteristic of each country. The prizes are curios from Russia, Norway and every out of the way corner of the globe.

As an exercise roller skating is beneficial to those whose flesh has become too solid for their taste. To reduce weight an hour daily of steady skating is neither too much nor too little, nor does this take too much time out of a busy day.

The New French Collar

ONE of the new ideas in lingerie-collars just arrived from Paris is to be seen in the illustration. Cream batiste makes the foundation of this neckpiece, which is inset with Irish lace. The contrast of the white lace and the creamy background is extremely attractive. Such a collar brings a passe blouse or dress waist right up to the fashion minute. And as a coat decoration it is stunning, and the beauty of it all is that you can make it yourself at little expense, although the Parisian model is quite extravagant in price.

Lack of Imagination in Children

ONE of the saddest signs of the times is the decay of imagination in children. A lamentable feature of our complex social life for some time has been the craving for expensive and artificial pleasures, and this sign of effete mentality is appearing now even in children.

Children are no longer willing to enjoy simple pleasures, and it is not difficult to account for the reason, for by inheritance they have come into a veritable kingdom of wants. Motor, expensive dresses, trips abroad, an elaborate feast for variety in attire and elaborate food are all part of the regime which we live in, according as our means permit.

The children of today are having handed down to them theories of life that depend upon money to make them happy to an extent that is terrible to contemplate. If the mother who gives her child elaborate and costly toys would only look ahead she would save her innocent little one much trouble of mind and perhaps much deterioration of character. If she would teach him to amuse himself by contriving little games for himself, by weaving his own little dream around a stick or a tin can, she would cultivate something in him that would give him a source of imaginative happiness which would often brighten his road for him. The more simple a child is brought up, the fewer costly toys he has, the better for him in the long run. He will learn to play the old simple games, to build castles, to fight great battles with wooden swords, to exercise his imagination continually, instead of learning to crave for excitement and now extravagance.

A great deal may be done by a judicious mother who makes up her mind to refuse her child a multitude of toys. She will lay the foundation of a finer and happier character than will be built up by the mother who gives recklessly a store of perishable and expensive playthings.

The Proper Way to Dust

Most Women Think They Know How, but the Question Is, Do They?

IF you were to tell the average housewife that she didn't know how to dust it would call forth an indignant protest, but the fact remains that few women really do know how to dust. Their idea is to take a dry dust cloth and pass it over objects on which the dust has collected. This is not dusting, by dear madam; it is merely changing the position of the offending particles that persist with such determination to settle upon everything.

The proper mode of procedure, the really hygienic way, is to have cheesecloth dust rags in sufficient quantities so they may only be used once and then put into the wash. These cloths should not be used dry, but dampened slightly. The moisture will cause all the particles of dust to cling to the rag. The dust cloth should never be made wet enough to cause a "bloom" to come upon the rarest maline, but merely made moist.

When house dust contains tubercle bacilli or other disease germs they may remain alive and dangerous for many months, because they are shielded from direct sunlight. But this is not the only reason why house dust favors the development of consumption and other diseases.

When the air that contains dust is breathed the dust is deposited on the lining of the throat and nose, and the delicate lining is irritated and injured in a way that aids the passage of the disease germs through the body. Dust, therefore, should be avoided, and house dust especially. There should be no unnecessary hangings and draperies and no matted down carpets—bare floors and rugs are more hygienic.

Carpets and rugs should be swept with a sweeper and not with a hard broom. Bare floors should be swept with a soft broom or wiped with a moist cloth. Dry cloths, brushes and feather dusters particularly stir up the dust, and the more dust stirred up in the house the more dangerous it is. When a room is swept the windows should be open from the top and kept closed at the bottom. Windows open at the top let the air out, but when opened at the bottom the air blows in and therefore causes the dust that has been raised to blow farther into the house instead of out of it.

Treat New Footwear This Way

BEGIN the care of your new spring shoes in the shoe shop. Insist on having your place kid shoes thoroughly polished with oil paste before they are sent home. If you wear them just as they are out of the box you will scratch them more in a week than you would in a month if they had been properly polished. Then, unless you have polished wooden floors, tell the dealer to put in "circulars" in the heels. These are little pieces of metal which prevent the unsightly "rundown" appearance.

The day you notice your heels getting run down have them straightened, which will lengthen the life of the shoe. Buy two good shoe brushes, a box of oil paste and a bottle of sweet oil. See to it that your shoes are cleaned or at least brushed every time you wear them. You need not apply the polish often, but once a week, but then do it thoroughly. Scrub your shoes all over with a damp cloth—wet paper squeezed soft is also good—let them dry, then put on the paste and polish.

Use sweet oil for your dull leather and dress shoes. There is a special preparation for suede boots. However, the latter will stay bright for months if rubbed occasionally with a piece of light colored velvet.

Don't omit shoe trees. They cost little and last forever. Every pair of shoes you have should be on shoe trees when not in use. Instead of using the wooden ones for your light slippers take whalebones or corset steels a little longer than the shoes, wind with narrow ribbon and, bending, slip into each slipper. The ends of the steel will press gently against the toe and the back of the shoe, keeping them in shape.

Posy Rings

ENGAGED girls who want to be original in their choice of an engagement ring and whose fiancés are not able to afford a very costly present could do a better than to revive the old custom of wearing "posy" rings.

These pretty love gifts were in vogue during the sixteenth, seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, and the posy was inscribed inside the ring often with the initials of the giver and the recipient.

A pretty idea for this form of engagement ring would be a plain gold seal ring with the initials of the recipient's Christian name, and her new surname initial could be added afterward. A ring of this kind would look much better than a cheap solitaire and would, besides, possess a certain old world charm not to be despised in these matter of fact days.

Here are a few poems for the would be "posy" ring wearers:

Two hearts are knyt as heaven thought
Twas God to thee directed me.
Thy consent is my content,
Not thine nor mine, but ours.
God's gift thou art, my dearest heart.

Resting the Skin

THERE is a famous beauty who has kept her complexion longer than most women through the simple expedient of resting her skin. In speaking of this somewhat novel idea she says:

"The reason women have such racked looking complexions, especially in the spring, is because they do not seem to realize that the skin gets tired along with the rest of the body."

"What are tired wrinkles or that drawn feeling that most of us have when overdoing? Nothing but a tired skin crying out for rest."

"How do I give this rest? That depends on how tired I am."

"If I have been out in a strong wind, for instance, I often rest my skin with a shade of lettuce leaves. I take the big outer leaves of a head of lettuce, dip them in boiling water in which is dissolved a few grains of borax or, better yet, a little cologne and place them over my face as I lie down for a half hour's rest."

"Another way I rest my skin is to wipe it off carefully with a mixture of rosewater and glycerin. This is in proportion of three parts of former to one of latter. This mixture removes dust and germs, yet does not clasp the skin as water will."

A PARASOL TIP.

Parasols are to match the gowns this season, whether the material is cotton, linen or silk. Even with an everyday glitzy brooch the parasol carried with it must be of the same material.

Girls who are expert with their needles could cover their own sunshades if an old frame is available. The cover could be ripped off, one section opened and pressed, and this will serve as a pattern for the new cover. When ripping examine carefully the sewing. At the top the mesh may be made exceptionally neat by shirring a little strip of the goods around the handle.

A FATAL TURN.

If Let's wife had turned to rubber she wouldn't have turned to salt.

BODY TAKEN FROM RIVER

NIGHT EDITION

BODY IN RIVER

Was Seen Floating Near North Chelmsford Today

A young man camping on the bank of the Merrimack river near Wotton's field in North Chelmsford discovered the body of a man floating in the river at a point opposite the old race course this afternoon. The police were notified and the body had not been identified up to the time of going to press. The man, it was said, was well along in years and weighed in the vicinity of 200 pounds. The body was fully dressed and was found lying face downward near the shore.

STATE SENATORS

Graft Charges at Jackson, Miss., Implicate Senators

JACKSON, Miss., April 9.—Five warrants charging poker playing were issued today as one of the ramifications of the Bilbo-Dulaney senate bribery investigation. The warrants were for State Senator Charles Engle, Rep. Charles Doherty, Samuel Clark and T. James, both prominent planters, and "Private" John Allen.

Allen, recently before the grand jury which is investigating some phases of the bribery charges, was asked if he knew of any gambling at Jackson during the legislative session. He said that he played poker in Rep. Doherty's room. The others under indictment also made statements to the jury about gambling at Jackson. Poker playing for money is unlawful under the Mississippi code.

The senate today resumed its investigation and refused to permit Senator Bilbo to take the stand immediately to reply to charges made last night that he offered to support an oyster propagation bill for three hundred dollars "expense money." He was told that he must wait until the regular rebuttal period.

AGAIN BURNED OUT

William E. Rigg's Home Destroyed by Fire

House, Barn and Shed in Billerica Street and Five Horses Consumed by Flames — Mr. Rigg Lost His Wife and His Home in South Lowell Explosion

The residence of William E. Rigg in Billerica street, Wiggsville, together with the barn and outbuildings and their contents, were destroyed by fire shortly after three o'clock this morning. The fire, the cause of which is unknown, had gained such headway before it was discovered, that it was almost impossible to save anything and Mr. Rigg and his two sons, who were asleep in the house at the time, had a narrow escape from being burned to death.

When the fire department, which had been summoned by alarms from boxes 315 and 515, arrived on the scene it was found that the buildings were doomed and the firemen could do little other than to pour water into the burning buildings to keep the flying embers from setting fire to buildings in the vicinity.

The owner of the buildings destroyed, Mr. Rigg, is one of the most unfortunate men in Lowell, for besides having had his property destroyed by fire on several occasions his home was wrecked and his wife lost her life as a result of the explosion of the magazines in 1902.

Brilliant illumination. The fire in itself was one of the most spectacular which has occurred in this city for years, for the sky was brilliantly illuminated and the glare could be seen for miles around. One of the peculiar things in connection with the fire, however, is the fact that even though it had gained large proportions it was not discovered until all of the buildings were doomed.

Rigg Fire. A milkman who was delivering milk in Ayer City stated to Chief Hosmer this morning that he saw the flames shooting skyward about 15 minutes before the first alarm was sounded.

The first alarm was from box 315 and was sent in at 3:21 o'clock. Seventeen minutes later an alarm from box 515 was sent in. The second alarm was pulled in by a young man who saw the glare of the blaze from his window, and the youth after pulling in the alarm stayed by the box for almost an hour after he pulled it in. When the electrician went to the box to replace the glass the boy said that it took an awfully long time for the firemen to respond to the alarm, but when he was told that the fire had been out for nearly half an hour he felt relieved.

Property Wiped Out

Prior to the explosion which occurred in July, 1903, Mr. Rigg had a large house, barn and many outbuildings in Billerica street, the buildings being situated near the bank of the Concord river. The explosion, however, wiped out his entire property, nothing being left but a pile of debris.

The most unfortunate incident in connection with the explosion was that Mrs. Rigg was killed and the loss of the property could not be compared with her loss.

After the explosion Mr. Rigg erected a one story structure which was used as a home by him and his two sons. The barn, which was about 30 by 40 feet, was three stories high and there were numerous outbuildings. In the barn were six horses, several furniture and pleasure wagons, harnesses, a big supply of hay, grain, etc., besides farming implements.

Barn in Flames

When Mr. Rigg and his sons retired for the night everything was apparently secure. Shortly after three o'clock this morning one of the boys awakened by the glare of flames through the window of his sleeping room. Jumping out of bed he saw that the barn and several of the outbuildings were afire and that the flames were rapidly eating their way towards the house.

He awakened his father, brother and sister and donning a few articles of wearing apparel ran to the corner of Lawrence and Morton streets and sent in an alarm from box 315.

He then hurried back to the house and assisted by his father, brother and neighbors who had been attracted to the scene attempted to save some of the property. The flames were so large and hot that it was almost impossible to get near any of the buildings and but few things were saved.

Firemen Worked Hard. Chief Hosmer and the fire department were soon on the scene, and despite the fact that they exerted every effort to save some of the buildings the fire had gained such headway that such a thing was out of the question.

Five Horses Burned to Death

Strenuous efforts to save the six horses in the barn were made, but the attempts were fruitless, for five of them were burned to death, and the sixth was burned so badly that in all probability it will have to be killed.

Practically the only things saved were several sleds which were in the yard.

While the firemen were working on the flames an alarm from box 515 at the corner of Woburn street and Circuit avenue was pulled in by a young man who had seen the blaze and thought it was nearer to that box than it really was.

The Fire Was Set.

Chief Hosmer is unable to state what caused the fire. Owing to the location many tramps have been found on the premises, and Mr. Rigg believes that the fire was set with malicious intent or else a tramp got into the barn and accidentally set the place afire.

When it was understood that tramps might have been in the barn the ruins were poked over by the firemen in an attempt to ascertain if any person had been burned but nobody was found.

Other Misfortunes. Shortly before the first fire at Mr. Rigg's home one of his sons was drowned in the Concord river. For a time he did the trucking for the Lowell Opera House and while in that employment met with two accidents. On one occasion he broke his arm and on another a paint pot fell from the head and inflicting severe injuries.

BLOODY AFFAIR

BUT NONE WAS SHED IN THIS CASE

MUSKEGEE, Okla., April 9.—Passages from Shakespeare were quoted by attorneys for the defense in a $10,000 damage suit in the district court here yesterday and so impressed the jury that it rendered a verdict declaring the plaintiff had no grounds for suit.

Louis Hall who asserts that he is of Portuguese descent entered suit against officials of the school board and officers of a literary society at Oklahoma, near here, for excluding him from a white school and denying him membership in the society. Attorneys for the defendants quoted Shakespeare's Othello to prove there is a strain of African blood in the Portuguese race.

ALL TO MOTHER

The Will of Late Yale Football Captain

NEW YORK, April 9.—The will of James J. Hogan, the former Yale football captain and assistant street cleaning commissioner of New York, filed here today was written on the back of a bank check, contained just twenty-three words and was one of the briefest documents ever offered for probate here.

"I leave all to my mother," the will read after employing seventeen words to designate Robert Thiney 2nd, as executor. The petition for probate sets forth that the testator died March 20 last, at Torrington, Conn., and that his estate consists of $2200 in personal property.

IMMIGRANTS TIPPED

THAT NEW YORK IS NOT AN EL DORADO

LONDON, April 9.—Courtenay Bennett, British consul general at New York, in his annual report cautions immigrants against assuming that New York is an El Dorado for the workingman. It is not, he says. "The expenses of living are so high and so constantly rising that a man in regular work in the United Kingdom at lower wages is as well off, if not better off, than his fellow workmen in New York at the higher wages here, while if out of work he is better off at home. It is estimated that to live in decency here a man with a wife and two children must spend $1000 a year."

Three children. He was born in Lowell and received his education in the local and public schools of the city.

He served four years under Supt. Charles A. Morse of the street department, as superintendent of street watering, concluding his services there

JOHN J. MULLANEY

Appointed Police Commissioner to Succeed Mr. Stearns

He is an Ex-Councilman, a Master Plumber, and a Life Long Friend of Mayor Meehan — Mr. Mullaney Says Office Has No Terrors for Man Who Tries to Do Right

John J. Mullaney will succeed Frank K. Stearns as chairman of the police board. The appointment of Mr. Mullaney was announced by Mayor Meehan last evening. Mr. Stearns' term of office expires May 31.

Mr. Mullaney is a master plumber with a place of business at 230 Market street. His home is at 219 Salem street. Mr. Mullaney served in the common council from ward 2 in 1893 and 1900. He is 35 years old, married and has when Supt. Morse's successor was elected. Mr. Mullaney is a member of the Knights of Columbus, Eagles, C. Y. M. L. and of the state association of Master Plumbers. Last year he was chosen by former Mayor Brown as an expert to examine the plumbing work at the Washington school house for the city of Lowell.

Life-Long Friend of Mayor's

Speaking of the appointment Mayor Meehan said: "Mr. Mullaney is a practical man and I have not the least doubt that his work as a member of the board of police will reflect credit on himself and on me. He is my personal selection and he represents my feelings. Above all he represents no 'interests,' and I feel assured that he will fill the office capably and well. Mr. Mullaney and myself have been warm friends all our lives."

Mr. Mullaney's Statement. Mr. Mullaney, since the announcement of his appointment, has been receiving the hearty congratulations of his friends from all parts of the city.

"As a San reporter this morning, when asked how he felt over his appointment he replied: 'Elated, of course, but I feel that the office carries with it very grave responsibilities. These, however, I will meet to the best of my ability. I think the office of police commissioner should have no terrors for the capable man who tries to do right.'

FIGHT PROMOTERS HIKE

NEW YORK, April 9.—The course of big things pugilistic took its way rapidly westward today with Jack Gleason, one of the Jeffries-Johnson fight managers, enroute to San Francisco and John McKeon, who has been representing the Gleason-Rickard interests here on his way to Chicago.

McKeon's trip has special interest just at this time. He will stay in Chicago until next Friday and, the fight enthusiasts say, won't make his way further west except in Johnson's company.

Uneasiness on Tex Rickard's part regarding Johnson's plans is responsible for McKeon's trip to the Far West with Johnson in tow. The New York agent has been instructed not to leave Chicago for the coast without being sure that Johnson is on the same train.

Gleason, before leaving, expressed himself as personally confident on this point. "There is no occasion for worry over Johnson," assured Gleason. "Rickard has only conducted one big fight, the Gans-Nelson battle at Goldfield, and he may be a little restless. Johnson has assured me that he will begin training near San Francisco before May 1 and I believe him."

Governor and Adjutant-General of Oklahoma Fight

Friends Interfere and Take Revolver From General Canton — Trouble Resulted From Republican Committee Row

GUTHRIE, Okla., April 9.—The interference of friends probably prevented a physical clash last night between Governor Haskell and Adjutant General Canton of the Oklahoma National guard. A revolver was taken from General Canton but witnesses of the encounter say he did not draw it on the governor. At the request of friends of Mrs. Haskell a police officer was placed on guard near the governor's apartments in the Royal hotel during the night. Chief of police Mitchell says he will swear out a warrant for General Canton today.

The trouble between the governor and the adjutant general resulted from the republican committee meeting held yesterday. The first regiment band had been engaged to furnish music for the occasion, it being the opening of Congressman McGuire's campaign. General Canton gave the order that the band should not appear in military uniform and forbade the use of the regiment's instruments. The band was playing when it received the order. The members discarded their uniforms, procured other instruments and later reappeared in the streets.

When Gov. Haskell's attention was called to the incident he sent Congressman McGuire a letter of apology and in it set forth that the order did not meet with his approval.

General Canton, shortly before midnight, sought Governor Haskell, witnesses declare, in the Royal hotel. The meeting occurred on a stairway landing near the governor's apartments. Witnesses testify to the violence of Adjutant General Canton's language but declare he did not draw a revolver. With emphatic gestures he is declared to have said: "I want you to understand you cannot countermand my orders; and if you do, you will pay for it."

J. M. Brooks, proprietor of the hotel and others rushed to the scene. Mr. Brooks took General Canton's revolver from him and later took the officer to his rooms. General Canton later reappeared in the streets, but did not enter the hall.

BADLY BITTEN VISITING DRUNKS A GREEK DOCTOR

Dog Attacks Girl in Will be Treated in an Adams Street Exemplary Manner

Della Stock, aged 12 years, and living at 218 Adams street, was bitten on the right ankle by a dog about 2:30 o'clock this morning. The little girl was playing in the street in the vicinity of Broadway and Adams street when the dog chased her, and grabbing her by the ankle inflicted a rather severe wound.

The child was taken into McNabb's drug store and the ambulance summoned. While waiting for the ambulance Mr. McNabb and his clerks treated the little girl and when the ambulance came Dr. Shaw attended the case and later she was taken to the Lowell hospital.

Woe be unto the out-of-town drunkard who finds his way into police court hereafter. Morning after-morning the dock in police court has been filled with drunks, the majority of whom belong out of town. Judge Hadley has decided that in order to rid the city of visiting drunks that sentences to the state farm must be imposed and from now on the stranger who makes his second appearance before the court will not escape with a $5 fine or receive a short sentence to jail, but will be sent to Bridgewater.

Nearly all of the drunks in court this morning were from out of town and after James O'Donnell, who claims to belong in Burlington, Vt., had been heard Judge Hadley said: "We have drunks enough of our own without entertaining outsiders. I am not going to have Lowell made the headquarters for drunks. After a first conviction for a drunkard who comes from out-of-town I am going to send him to the state farm."

STRUCK BY AUTO

Joseph Lamarche, a little boy who lives in Clever street, was struck by an automobile yesterday afternoon at the corner of Moody and Allen streets and had a narrow escape from being badly injured. The child was coming from school at the time the accident happened. The automobile was passing through the sliver alongside of a big truck which hid it from the boy's view, the truck also hiding the view of the boy from the chauffeur. He was knocked down but after treatment by Dr. Chas. he was revived and his injuries do not seem to be serious.

NEW SPEED RECORDS

Marked Opening of the Los Angeles Motordrome

PLAYA DEL REY, Cal., April 9.—The establishment of many new speed records yesterday marked the opening of the Los Angeles motordrome. Every world's record for a one mile track from one to one hundred miles was broken and five national speedway marks were lowered in the trials and the free-for-all contests.

New mile track records were expected for this is the first board track ever raced on by motor cars. In addition to national records, new marks were also set in stock car events.

The racing was free from accidents. At the end of the 100 mile race a Dorris car, driven by Frank Seifert, turned turtle, but after the car had run into the paddock, Seifert's arms had become numb from the strain and he lost control of the wheel. He was not injured.

The first mile on the track was a record. Caled Bragg, an amateur, in 1:32.29 the F. I. A. T. T. around in 1:37.57. George Robertson was next to be sent away and his big Simplex thundered after the 10 mile record. When he began clipping miles off in 39 seconds it was apparent that the record would fall. He finished the 10 miles in 6:31.57. Strang's mark at Atlanta for this distance was 7:01.94. Another world's mile track record and a national speedway mark went glimmering when Barney Oldfield turned loose his 200-horse-power Benz for a mile, making the "pit pan" in 58.22 seconds. This car was never opened to the limit and it is expected that a still lower mark will be set. Ralph de Palma, in his 190-horse-power F. I. A. T. T. cut down the 15 mile mark to 8:15.62.

He was followed by Ben Kircher, who cut the two mile record to 1:18.29 in a Darraco. The racing was unusually spirited and every contest was hard fought. The most sensational drive of the day was made by Oldfield, in a Knox, in the 10 miles race for cars with 451-horse power piston displacement. Getting away to a bad start, due to his position on the extreme inside, Oldfield was an eighth of a mile behind the flying Slodard-Dayton, with Livingston up, in the first half mile. Haunshue, in the Apperson was running second. Oldfield began his race for the leaders and by the end of the fourth mile was in command, winning handily in 7:51.25. The Apperson was second.

The five mile free-for-all proved a thriller, with de Palma in the F. I. A. T. T. 90 and Robertson, in the Simplex, racing hood and hood for almost the entire distance. The Italian won by a scant length in 3:58.30. The hundred mile race was a tight between Harroun's Marmon and Seifert's Dorris. The cars were lapped for 95 of the 100 miles. At the end of 90 miles the Dorris crossed the line one foot ahead of the Marmon. Harroun drew away in the last five miles and opened up a

JOHN B. PUGSLEY LORD KITCHENER

Lowell Has Classy and Classic Pitcher Will Have Public Reception in N. Y.

SOMERSWORTH, N. H., April 9.—John B. Pugsley, Colby '05, now principal of the Somersworth high school and widely known in New England as a baseball pitcher, will be on the pitching staff of the Lowell team in the New England league during the second half of the season. By the terms of his contract with the Lowell management Mr. Pugsley will enter upon his duties June 25 and continue with the team until the close of the season.

This will be his first appearance in a New England league uniform. Field Manager Smith of the Lowell team considers, however, that in Mr. Pugsley he has a slab artist who will not prove disappointing. For the work he has been doing ever since his college days and before has been of a high order.

Mr. Pugsley has been in the game every season since he was a high school boy. He pitched all through his high school course and was captain of the team his senior year. At Colby he was a varsity pitcher four years and captained the team in his junior year. During his college summer vacations he pitched in the Maine league first for Rockland, then successively for Dover-Foxcroft and Hallowell.

After leaving college he pitched two seasons for the Slater A. A. of Webster, Mass., in the Southern Massachusetts league, and two seasons for the Woodstock, Vt., independent team. He returned home from Woodstock last fall in season to pitch the winning and deciding game for Somersworth on Labor Day in the gruelling contest with Dover for the county and state championship.

Principal Pugsley has thus put in eight seasons of professional ball and has developed into a hardened and skilled pitcher. He is also a fast infield player. At Colby he used to alternate with Pitcher Combs as shortstop and pitcher. He is a clever and a hard hitter and a good base runner.

In football Mr. Pugsley has also been prominent. He was captain and left end of the Colby team throughout his course and was its captain the last two years.

Mr. Pugsley is the son of George E. Pugsley of this city and was born here 26 years ago. He fitted for Colby in the Somersworth High school. Since his college graduation he has taught as principal for two years at Nichols academy, Webster, Mass. two years at Black River academy, Ludlow, Vt., and the current year at Somersworth high, his alma mater. He will report for duty with Lowell immediately after the high school commencement.

Miss Marion B. McDowell of Ludlow, Vt., a pupil at the academy while he was there as principal.

TO RETRIEVE POLO TROPHY
LONDON, April 9.—The committee recently formed to raise $50,000 to purchase ponies with which to equip a polo team to be sent to the United States in an endeavor to win back the international cup, already has subscriptions amounting to $15,000. A long list of the subscribers to the fund is published this morning. Keen interest is being taken in the project.

NEW YORK, April 9.—The tour of Field Marshal Horatio Herbert Kitchener, earl and viscount, hero of Khartoum and the Transvaal and commander in chief of the British army in India, may end with a public reception for him here. While Lord Kitchener has requested that no official notice be made of his trip from San Francisco to New York, a plan is under way to pay due honor to the distinguished Englishman by tendering him a banquet in this city.

FIVE MEN SAVED

Were Picked Up in Dismantled Dory

MARBLEHEAD, April 9.—The fishing schooner Maxwell, bound from Gloucester to Boston, picked up a dory containing Arthur W. Burham, Fred A. Landry, William Derocher, Henry Levesque and John A. Bert of Salem about four miles outside of Half Way Rock this afternoon and brought them into the harbor.

When picked up the dory was being driven out to sea by the northwest gale and the men were having a hard time keeping her afloat. According to Burham, the men left Salem about 8 a. m. yesterday for a fishing trip in the bay. When off Bakers island they were struck by a squall which snapped off the mast. They rigged up a distress signal with the broken mast and rubber coat, which was seen by the Maxwell.

ANDY MORRIS
MAKES FINE SHOWING AT SHORT NOTICE

BROCKTON, April 9.—Tim Sullivan of Newburyport, carded to meet Jack Fitzgerald of Philadelphia in a 12 round bout at the Union A. C. in the Palace rink last night, failed to appear and it was announced that he mixed it up too fast Thursday with Sandy Ferguson and his training quarters in Nahant and wasn't in condition to put up a battle.

Andy Morris, who defeated Al Kubiak at the Armory A. A. in Boston Tuesday night, was substituted for Sullivan and if any decision had been given by Referee Pat Doherty would have been the winner.

In the first few rounds Morris appeared slow and Fitzgerald's blows had plenty of steam, but after the ninth Fitzgerald dropped the pace and Morris sailed in, upcutting at will and finishing strong. It was a rugged go, with a lot of inching that pleased the 600 members.

Yung Hamilton of Taunton won from Young Bennett of Boston in a 6-round slugfest match. Bennett started in strong, but Hamilton hored steadily and slammed the Boston boy around to his heart's content. Al Deion in Bennett's corner expressed disgust at Referee Doherty's decision in to uncertain terms.

Young O'Hara of Whitman was stopped by Young Mitchell of Worcester in the first round of the scheduled 6-round bout, Mitchell sending over a sleep-producer after a shower of punches that dazed the Whitman novice.

NAVAL FIGHTING

BETWEEN TURKISH TROOPS AND CLANSMEN
LONDON, April 9.—The Standard's Constantinople correspondent reports renewed fighting between the Turkish troops and the clansmen, who are threatening private interests. The losses of the Albanians are unknown. The Daily Telegraph's Belgrade correspondent says that after fierce fighting the Albanians withdrew to the mountains pursued by the Turks, who had two officers and 10 soldiers killed. The correspondent also adds the rumor that the Turkish commander, Shevket Pasha, was wounded.

PROMINENT DOCTOR DEAD
NEW YORK, April 9.—Dr. Andrew Heerman Smith, consulting physician to a number of New York hospitals and author of many monographs on medical subjects, died last night at the Hotel Algonquin, which he owned. He was 73 years old and diseases incident to old age caused his death.

NEW HARRIMAN STABLE
MIDDLEBURY, N. Y., April 9.—Mrs. Edward H. Harriman has begun operations for the erection of one of the most costly stables in the United States, at the foot of the incline railway leading to the Harriman estate at Arden. The structure will be more than a year in building and will be equipped with every modern appliance.

SUBMARINE RECORD
CHERBOURG, April 9.—The French submarine boat Ventise yesterday established a record by navigating at a depth of 113 feet for 24 hours.

Combination Coal and Gas Crawford Ranges

The Crawford Gas Ovens are safe. They are lighted in a new way; there is no dangerous pilot light and explosions are impossible. This improvement is patented and very important.

The Damper is automatically opened by opening oven door to light the burners, which cannot be lighted until the door is opened.

In these Gas Ovens there is an extra set of burners at the top for broiling; a great advantage over the ordinary gas oven, insuring better broiling and great convenience.

The Oven Bottoms and Racks are cast iron, and the outer walls are triple—an interlining of asbestos between two sheets of iron, which assists to retain the heat.

The use of these Gas Ovens does not interfere in any way with the operation of the coal range—both can be used at the same time.

Double Oven above or Single Oven at end of range. Circulars Free.

Sworn to by John H. Harrington, proprietor, Martin H. Reidy, business manager, and Alfred Pilote, pressman, of The Sun, before me, January 1, 1910. J. JOSEPH HENNESSY, Notary Public.

THE POLICE PENSION LAW.

The action of the police board in retiring five men on pension has been unfavorably commented upon in some quarters, and the board is criticized as if it were responsible for the law. The law is on the statute books and it is the duty of the board to administer that and all other laws that apply to the department. The men retired had reached a stage at which they were incapacitated for ordinary police duty. They might serve as watchmen but are not needed in that capacity. The board of police, desiring to keep up the efficiency of the department, felt it necessary to retire them, and in so doing the board simply did its duty to the men and to the city. Two good men would have been worth any four of them during the past few years. If there is any ground for criticism as a result of retiring officers unfit for duty, it should be directed to the men who passed the police pension law in the legislature and the men who subsequently as members of the city council adopted it.

It is possible that the pension list may in time become a burden to the city; but the only remedy for that is to repeal or modify the law. The Sun never favored the present law and believes now as formerly that a pension should be paid only on account of permanent disability resulting from injury sustained in the service. There is here an object lesson in the necessity of selecting conservative men for the city council as otherwise the adoption of permissive acts of this kind may seriously affect the financial condition of our city in the future.

THE POLICE BOARD APPOINTMENT.

To fill the vacancy soon to occur in the police board by the expiration of Mr. Stearns' term, Mayor Meehan has appointed John J. Mullaney, a life-long friend, an ex-councilman and a young man whose capability cannot be questioned.

It is always the case when such appointments are announced that there will be criticism from some quarter. It will be said that the mayor might have made a better choice, that such and such a man would make a better police commissioner. The people who talk this way do not know Mr. Mullaney, and yet they are setting their judgment against that of the mayor who does know him and who can vouch for his honesty, his ability and fitness for the position.

It is not always possible nor is it desirable to appoint to public office only those men who by long experience as public servants have demonstrated their honesty and capability. Such a policy would bar new men, would give us a lot of official barriers and build up a privileged office-holding aristocracy.

Public sentiment as expressed by individual criticism and as voiced by some newspapers is not infrequently wrong in condemning such appointments before the officials have had a chance to prove their worth. Those who remember the appointment of the late Tom Farrell as chief of the fire department may recall that he was ridiculed in the press as wholly unfitted for the position, but yet Lowell has never had his equal as fire chief. When Mr. Boulger was appointed to the police board, we remember also that the appointment was criticized in certain quarters, but yet nobody can deny that Mr. Boulger has made a good and capable commissioner.

We do not hear any severe criticism of the mayor's choice of Mr. Mullaney but we mention these facts to show that in such cases a good deal of unjust criticism is leveled at the appointee. We recognize the fact that Mr. Mullaney is honest and otherwise well qualified to fill the office in the most satisfactory manner. That is all that can be expected of any police commissioner, and we wish him all possible success in his new office.

TO BRIDGE EAST MERRIMACK STREET.

In a community in which the idea of "the city beautiful" seems to have taken root, it is natural that some surprise should be felt at the proposition of the Massachusetts company to connect their mills on opposite sides of East Merrimack street by two overhead bridges. If it were proposed to bridge a back street the public might not regard the proposition with such dismay; but to bridge over one of the main thoroughfares in full view of the principal square and the business centre of the city is certainly one that cannot be regarded as in accord with the prevailing ideas of public progress or municipal aestheticism. Where the big billboards are tabooed, where overhead wires are ordered underground, and where all street obstructions in front of buildings have been outlawed, how shall we regard a project for mill bridges spanning a public street?

Of course the people of Lowell do not want to block the progress of the Massachusetts company or any other enterprising company for that matter; but the company should remember that the matter of bridging over one of the principal streets is a most extraordinary undertaking. The building ordinance would not permit it, so that the question will probably have to go before the city council for decision if the company adheres to the plan.

A bridge or bridges of the kind proposed would be a menace to public safety, and if at any time a lump of ice or snow, a board of any other part of the structure, loosened by the storm, fell to the street the result might be very serious. Then, too, if it caught fire the whole structure might come down to block the street or spread the fire to other buildings.

The Massachusetts company is building a big storehouse on Bridge street and a big mill on East Merrimack street. These buildings will not improve the appearance of the streets on which they are located. To go further and throw two bridges across East Merrimack street would make matters still worse. We do not believe that there will be any objection to a tunnel under the street to connect the mills on opposite sides. The privilege of constructing such a tunnel, we believe, is as much as the company should ask, for even that may inconvenience the city, at some future day.

The tunnel would be safer and better for all concerned and unlike the overhead bridge it could never be injured by storms or fires. We believe the engineering difficulties of constructing a tunnel to serve the same purpose as the bridges are not insuperable. The tunnel might cost more but its solidity and permanency would warrant the expenditure.

SEEN AND HEARD.

It was at a hotel in the eastern part of the state and several traveling men were sitting in the office, when in came a stranger, evidently himself a traveling man, but not the ordinary runner, content to mind his own business and let others do the same. Oh, no, this man was one of those men who enter a room with a curious everybody's business expression, and no sooner was he seated than he began to look around with a question mark in his eye. Sitting just the other side of him, was a large, well dressed, conservative appearing man, quiet and retiring (for a runner) and the newcomer seemed to fight shy of asking him a question, but he shortly went the rounds of the other men, and having no more words to conquer, he turned to the man at his side and said in a most insinuating voice, "Ah, dry goods?" The other man never winked an eye, just answered quite as briefly, "No, circus." Now in order to appreciate the joke one should see the man. The newcomer was rather dazed and began at once to make comments upon the size of the town and the lack of interest in anything of this kind, saying he should hardly think that it would pay to show him such a small place. "Oh yes," said the other, "you should see the people turn out to Barnum and Bailey, or to Fourpaugh's." The men who were sitting around were as impassive as American Indians, the man who was supposed to represent the "world's greatest" was as serious as a judge, and that other man who was afflicted with an over developed bump of curiosity, just swallowed it all and if you knew the town and the man, you would realize what a very stupid man he must have been to take it in as he did and he was from New York too, but not much need to the ways of Maines, Portland Express.

skills, "The Pianophiles," compelling nine expert pianists, pleasing vocalists, clever dancers and unique entertainers. In the scenic setting of an elaborate piano saleroom on Fifth Avenue, New York, four clerks and a department manager are discovered, killing time in the absence of customers, by playing on five pianos at the same time. While they are thus engaged, in walk four young ladies, dressed in the height of fashion, who announce in song, that they are on a shopping tour, and have dropped in to buy a piano. Waited on by the four clerks, who, in the midst of their song, play on various pianos, an infectious catchy octet selection is rendered, rivaling in originality and tunefulness of famous "Florodora" sextet. Then, seating himself at the grand piano which occupies the centre of the stage, the manager plays an overture, which, under the leadership of the entire company, a man and woman seated at each piano. The effect of nine pairs of hands playing on five pianos can better be imagined than described. The musicians are all finished pianists and singers, chosen from the best musical circles of New York and Boston, and the quartet of stunning girls is said to be the prettiest in vaudeville. Their gowns and hats are the last word in fashion, and come from a prominent Fifth Avenue firm. James S. Devline and Miss Mac Ellwood are most entertaining in their comedies "The Girl From New York." The heroine is a girl Raffles, who, when surprised in a bachelor's apartment, pretends that she is a simple maiden from the country, who has wandered into the wrong apartments by mistake. She succeeds in capturing the gay bachelor by her "fading" ways, and quietly annexes his valuables, while he is making love to her. When she finally makes her exit, she takes even his overcoat with her. The sketch is brightly written and splendidly acted. A novel and picturesque act is given by Staff and Conia, in a Russian peasant character sketch, including the typical songs and dances of Russia. There is also some clever acrobatic work, and an exhibition by two well-trained, trick dogs. Roland Carter & Co. offer "Vacation Days," a comedy convention that is highly original and framed in a novel setting that represents a prison interior, the characters being the warden and two prisoners, George Baron, the favorite English character singer, will render a number of his most popular song successes. The Lessos, Australian jugglers, are astonishing performers, their program being replete with new and startling feats. Kessler and Dunn are a first class team. Their songs are catchy, and they are marvelously skillful dancers. The show closes with a series of the latest moving pictures.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

The excellence of the bill at the Academy of Music this week has drawn crowds to that cozy playhouse, which proves that the patrons appreciate a good thing when they see it. And the management will keep up the good work by presenting on Monday, Cornelia Roberts & Co. in a great comedy sketch of stage life, and George Nagle in a little bit of everything. Miss Bughaw will return with some of the songs that have made her so popular, together with new moving pictures including a biograph. Admission, 5 and 10 cents.

THEATRE VOYONS

"The Flower of the Ranch," the feature at the Theatre Voyons today, is one of the most pleasing western subjects shown in a long time. Its plot deals with cowboys, a wealthy easterner and the flower of the ranch, a mighty pretty girl. During the story a lively chase ensues between the cowboys and the Easterner in his auto and of course the cowboys win. The Biograph subject is also taken in the far west and its scenic settings are a decided novelty. Tomorrow an unusual concert will be given, the pictures being the very best and latest released for Sunday showing and the songs well sung and just the kind that please. On Monday the feature will be a very interesting Pathé Film d'art.

FOREIGN TRADE

IN AUTOMOBILES AMOUNTS TO $1,000,000 A MONTH

The foreign trade of the United States in automobiles now amounts to a million dollars a month, or 12 million dollars per annum, of which sum about 4 millions are imports and 8 millions exports. Ten years ago the trade in automobiles was not of sufficient value to justify the bureau of statistics of the department of commerce and labor in making a separate record of either the imports or exports, the few automobiles entering or leaving the country being included under the miscellaneous category of "All other articles." In July, 1901, however, the bureau began to record the exports, which in the fiscal year 1902 amounted to about 1 million dollars, and since that time the value of automobiles and parts thereof exported to foreign countries has been in round terms 30 million dollars, of which total about 25 million has developed in the 5 years ending with December, 1903, with a prospect that the fiscal year 1910 will show an export record of fully 8 million dollars.

Imports the record was not established until July, 1905, when the total of automobiles and parts imported to 1 million dollars, in the fiscal years 1906 and in 1907 over five millions, but falling below that figure in succeeding years, making the total importation for the 5 years ending December, 1909, for which a record exists about 18 million dollars of automobiles and parts thereof. The shipments of automobiles and parts thereof to Alaska, Hawaii and Porto Rico are not included in the figures quoted above, but amount in the past 5 years to about 2 million dollars, making the total value of the automobiles passing in and out of ports of the United States in the past 5 years about 43 million dollars.

The imports are chiefly from France, Italy, Germany and the United Kingdom, and the exports to practically every country in the world, though the largest number go to Canada, the United Kingdom, Mexico and Australia. The number sent to Canada in the fiscal year 1909 was 1230, valued at $1,357,120; to England 590 machines, valued at $1,673,914; to France 201 machines, valued at $643,692; to Mexico 200 machines, valued at $235,462; and to Australia, 127 machines, valued at $81,428. The prices of those sent to European countries are, as a rule, higher than that of the machines sent to Canada, Mexico and Australia, the average price of those sent to France being over $3000 each, according to the prices and numbers of machines reported to the bureau of statistics; those to England average nearly $4000 a piece; those to Canada about $2200 and Mexico about $1400 each; and those to Australia less than $650 each.

The total number of automobiles exported in the fiscal year 1909 was, according to the bureau of statistics figures, 1314, valued at $5,857,021, an average value of about $1700 for a machine, and the number imported 1624, valued at $2,305,301, showing also an average of about $1700 for each machine. The distribution of automobiles extends to all parts of the world, the number of countries named by the bureau of statistics as destination of automobiles exported in the fiscal year 1909 being not less than 50 and including India, China, Dutch East Indies, Japan, Canary Islands, Egypt, French West Indies, Central American States, West India Islands, Gibraltar and Portugal.

The figures for the calendar year

are larger and show also higher prices, the number of machines exported in the calendar year 1909 being 1686, and the stated value being $5,859,031, an average of nearly $1900, these figures including only the shipments of machines to foreign countries, and not including the shipments to our non-contiguous territory, or the parts of machines which are included in the grand total stated below in comparing our own exports of automobiles with those of other countries.

France leads the world as an exporter of automobiles, with the United States second in rank. Statistics compiled from the official publication of the countries named show that the exports of vehicles of this class in the latest year for which details are at hand were: from France, in 1908, $24,569,000; the United States, in the calendar year 1909, $8,667,397; the United Kingdom, in 1909, $7,610,287; Italy, in 1908, $5,533,000; and Germany, in 1908, $3,031,000.

THOS. F. WALSH SEWER MATTERS ACCEPTS PARISH

"Silver Mine King" Dies in Washington

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 9.—Thomas F. Walsh died at his home here at 11.30 o'clock last night. Death was due to a growth in his lungs, the result of an injury received years ago when Mr. Walsh was a miner in the west. Although the "silver mining king," as Mr. Walsh was known, had been ill for the past three months, the end came suddenly and peacefully. He died in his palatial Massachusetts avenue home here, whither he had returned several weeks ago after a tour through the south in search of health. He was surrounded when the end came by the immediate members of his family, his wife, daughter and son-in-law, Edward B. McLean and by three physicians, Dr. Mitchell of this city and Doctors Guthrie and Finney of Johns Hopkins university. He will be buried in Rock Creek cemetery, in this city, by the side of his only son, who lost his life in an automobile accident in Newport, R. I., several years ago. At his request the funeral ceremonies will be simple. They will be conducted by the Masonic order and will be held Sunday afternoon.

Thomas F. Walsh was born in Ireland in 1851. He was educated in the public schools and early in life was apprenticed to a wheelwright. When he was 13 years old he came to the United States, going almost directly to Colorado, where he made his fortune in the development of mines.

In 1879 he was married to Miss Carrie B. Reed. He was named as one of the commissioners to the Paris exposition in 1889 and had been otherwise significantly honored by his government.

Mr. Walsh always a genial host and a fond of company, was a member of a number of clubs and belonged to several scientific societies. In the immediate past he developed a keen interest in aviation and was the leading figure in the effort to have the international aviation meet held in the national capital.

The tragic death of his only son came some years ago, was a most severe shock to Mr. Walsh and one which he never fully recovered. The boy was killed in an automobile accident, which injured his sister, now Mrs. Edward McLean.

A son born to his daughter recently has been called, on account of the immense wealth on both paternal and maternal sides, the "Hundred Million Dollar Baby."

Fr. McNamara Will Establish in Pelham

Rev. John J. McNamara, for more than seven years assistant to Rev. Fr. Schofield, pastor of St. John's church, North Chelmsford, and of St. Catherine's church, Graniteville village, Westford, has accepted the position of the new parish created in the New Hampshire diocese by Bishop Guerin.

REV. JOHN J. McNAMARA

The new parish includes Salem, North Salem, Pelham, and Canobie Lake, N. H. Fr. McNamara will begin his work in the New Hampshire parish May 23. His headquarters will be in Salem, N. H., where a house has been secured for a parochial residence. There are no Catholic churches in the new parish. Masses have been celebrated at Canobie Lake by Rev. Fr. Hannon at which Boston, Lowell, Nashua and other summer residents in that section attended.

Beginning May 23 next, mass will be celebrated in a hall in Pelham, N. H., at 9 a. m. Sundays by Rev. Fr. McNamara and at 10.30 a. m. Sundays he will celebrate mass at Canobie Lake.

Fr. McNamara was born near Glasgow, Scot., but came with his parents to Rochester, N. H., when a boy. He was educated in the public and parochial schools in Rochester and later studied in the preparatory school of the Christian Brothers in that city. He was graduated from St. Anselm's college, Manchester, N. H., in 1897. He pursued his philosophical and theological studies in the Grand seminary in Montreal and was ordained as a priest in December, 1902, in St. James' cathedral, Montreal, by Bishop Brind of Valleyfield, Que.

He was assigned to duty in North

Chelmsford, Jan. 2, 1903, and has been in continuous service in that parish since that time. The parish of which Fr. Schofield is pastor, includes nearly all the villages of Chelmsford and the towns of Westford, Dunstable, Tyngsboro and Carlisle to Concord railroad station. Fr. McNamara has been a willing worker under Fr. Schofield and is popular with members of St. John's parish.

VAHEY TO STICK

Will Not be Withdrawn From Contest

BOSTON, April 9.—James H. Vahey will not be withdrawn from the contest for the democratic nomination for governor unless it can be pointed out to him that there is a greater demand for another candidate.

This is practically the attitude that he will take in a formal statement on his position to be issued today.

Mr. Vahey will state that it is not his purpose to wreck the democratic party by holding out against Congressman-elect Eugene N. Foss or any other candidate. He proposes to make it plain, however, that in his opinion no other candidate nominated by the party can possibly win except with his support.

Mr. Vahey has told his friends that Mayor Fitzgerald has shown a sudden change of front on the gubernatorial situation since he was re-elected. He says that before the city-allocation Mayor Fitzgerald had told everybody that in his opinion that he, Vahey, should have the nomination.

The candidate for governor stated to a reporter that he would be perfectly willing to sit down in conference with the democratic leaders of the state and discuss the situation.

"It is about time, though," said he, "that the democrats of the state be given a chance to say whom they want for governor. I don't think that any one leader has a right to say who should be the choice of the party for governor."

HUNG BY LEG

Lineman Killed in Mid-Air at Milton

BOSTON, April 9.—The body of a man, the life taken out of the form through an electric current of 2400 volts, hung by one leg, swaying back and forth on a cable high above the street, fronting the hose house at East Milton last evening.

Then came action by the firemen of the district, who put up a ladder, wound a rope about the body of Peter J. Mullen, a telephone lineman belonging in East Braintree, and slowly lowered the remains to the street that it might be given over to the charge of an undertaker, for physicians who arrived on the scene announced that death must have been instantaneous.

The deadly high tension electric wire that had its place upon the pole along with the telephone cable, was the cause of the electrocution. Mullen, who was 30 years old, had gone up the pole to repair the telephone cable. They say that he had full knowledge that above him the current of death lurked, but he may have forgotten its presence, for in the interest that he gave the job before him one hand was placed upon the high tension wire, and he died without emitting a sound.

The street below was lighted up with the flash that came as the voltage was swirled through his body; then the clutch was released and he fell upon the telephone cable in such a manner that as he passed across it his right leg caught on one of the wire fastenings, and he hung head downward, held in place by the small implement alone.

Mullen was employed by the New England Telephone and Telegraph Co. and was regarded as an expert. He was unmarried and resided at 11 Allen street, East Braintree.

Great Diversity of Style In Spring Hats

wreath or small roses and pendent lilies of the valley. More trimming is used on the spring hats than the winter shapes displayed, and the hat of handsome material and artistic line with almost no trimming on it that we enjoyed the past season has been eclipsed by the hat with more liberal trimmings. Flowers, tulle, lace, satin, velvet and ribbon with aiglets and ostrich plumes are the principal hat adornments. Even on tailored creations the

It is quite amusing to go about the smart millinery shops and gather up inside "tips" concerning the season's styles. One artist will confidentially tell you that "the hats displayed in the general showrooms, the big, eccentric models, are not our best hats, but are merely put out to catch the attention of the crowd. Small hats are the shapes we are showing our exclusive patrons." And another "head milliner" will just as confidently inform you that "there is a wide diversity in styles. High and low crowns hobnob together, and picture hats are seen side by side with fantastic turban shapes or the inverted bowl creation." Millinery doctors disagree quite as positively as do the sons of Esculapius.

As a matter of fact, big hats, little hats, hats of all periods, hats of all materials, hats of many shapes—all these are included in the new creations, and everything points to a season of variety, originality and charm in the hat world. While the turban cap of oriental swanings and the toque are having things very much their own way, the large round brimmed chapeau is not being ignored. There are many persons who do not feel that they look well in afternoon toilets unless they wear a big shape, and these will be satisfied in the present melange as well as the woman who is tired of the inconvenient shapes and wishes something more comfortable.

But most of the new models are fascinating, those turned up sharply at the side or back being usually becoming and a decided contrast to the peach basket of last spring. We have, though, with as the close fitting bowl shape. It is trying, but where it can be worn is absurdly fetching. The new shape is dubbed by the saleswomen as mushroom, but they are more accurately described as bowl shape. Fancy, if you can, a certain coquettish type of girl wearing a "bowl" shape in one of the light soft braids in an attractive color trimmed on the left side with a cluster of flowers. If the material have the right French stamp you will call up a delightful vision. Printed cottons have entered the millinery field. In Persian colorings and designs these cottons are used for making the "bowl" shaped hats just described. For wear with morning frocks a model of this kind would be charming covered with cool green and white or buff and white cotton.

The hat with the flyaway brim is a novelty introduced in headgear. It is the left side of the brim that flares to the wide above a moderate sized crown. These shapes are in straw, faced with velvet, and are worn well down over the ears. The only trimming is a bow of velvet or a many looped bow of wired malines. A very good hat of the flyaway order is of white straw bound with black velvet with a black malines bow in front. The pins to be used are of jet.

Satin covered crowns combined with straw brims are another freakish idea exploited this season—a wide brimmed shape whose crown is covered smoothly with satin, while the drooping or rolling brim is of leghorn or braid. A hat of this type seen at an exclusive establishment has a wide leghorn brim rolling a little at the left front and drooping elsewhere. The bowl shaped crown is covered with a mignonette green satin, and at the left side two long spikes of gladioli are posed quill fashion.

By the way, the gladioli is a recent addition to the list of artificial flowers, and where stiff floral effects are to be desired it serves its purpose well. There is a great deal of Greek net used for making crowns and hat trimmings. This net is newer and smarter than the more plebeian tulle or malines, which bids fair to be overdone. The Greek net is lovely in all tints and in black richly touches up some of the best creations. Many of the Greek net choux are placed at the back of the hats, standing up with the assistance of wire, though the effect is beautifully soft. The tan straw model among the illustrations that turns up in the back has a fetching bow of coral colored Greek net.

The French sailor pictured is also a good little model with its upstanding loop adornment of ribbon and its quill and wing does not figure prominently. Smart little tailored shapes of rough straw that turn up directly in front or at one side are trimmed with big velvet or taffeta bows. The "Chan-teleer" hat is having a certain vogue among a certain class, but the millinery world is not taking the rooster decoration seriously. Still, the colorings of the rooster's plumage, the watermelon pinks and vivid reds, are influencing fabrics both in the dressmaking and millinery realm. The new spring hats are worn as flat on the head as ever. They generally conceal the hair, which is accomplished quite easily since the hair is worn flat against the head, completely outlining the head except at the back, where a calotte is introduced, and then the effect is something of the Psyche knot, though without the Psyche, the strands being wound about a form placed at the back of the head, giving that silhouette. There is a new veil, called by satirists the tea-and-toast veil, because the weave has a large diamond shaped opening that may be stretched to leave the mouth entirely free to partake of liquids. It is no uncommon sight to see women in smart restaurants and at afternoon teas drinking tea and nibbling toast and cake through the new veil with apparent comfort.

How to Make Money

A Practical Experiment In Which a Talent For Embroidery Was Made to Pay

"THERE was a distinct need of making money," said a clever girl recently, "and the only gift I possessed was the most difficult to turn to account. I had only the gift of the needle used in the manufacture of art needlework."

"I knew, however, that I could design, and I possessed a certain originality—eye for color and an intuition in working things out."

"I pressed my sisters into service, and we worked like beavers for several months. Then we determined to give a little exhibition of our needle craft and to invite every friend, acquaintance and 'bargain acquaintance' we possessed to come and see them."

"It is doubtful whether our scheme would have been a success without the assistance of a friend, an art student, who had been studying in Munich, who most luckily came to stay with me a month before the exhibition. She came fresh from having helped in a kind of arts and crafts exhibition in Germany, so spoke as one with authority, and she did seem to have grasped the business side of the question in a clever manner. 'The Germans teach us a lot,' she remarked while looking over my stock of finished work, 'but most of all to be practical.'"

"We were very much amused at her use of the word and thought the English equivalent would express it quite well, but as time went on the word took on a higher meaning."

"When examining some little squares into which I had put some of my best work my friend from Munich asked, 'But what on earth are these?'"

"A little hurt at her evident want of appreciation," I answered, "This, you might see, is a spider's web on a thistle."

"Yes, of course," she interrupted. "I am not blind, but what are they for? As they are at present they are not practical."

"At last it came time to send out the cards of invitation, and we settled on two afternoons in a certain week for our exhibition. We cleared what we could out of the living room, so that nothing should detract from the interest of the work. The needle craft objects were grouped together about the room on tables and wherever was space. We had small labels tacked conspicuously to each piece of work, with the price attached."

"Our invitations had been sent in a very broadcast way. We had really asked whoever there was to come, for we considered it a business and not a social event, but to make things sociable we served tea and cakes. At the sight of the first stragglers we were seized with an unaccountable but strong desire to break into wild laughter, it seemed so ridiculous to be taken so seriously, but half an hour afterward we were too busy for any more hysterical inclinations, as our neighbors came in numbers, and soon our rooms were filled with people. And they bought every article and, what was better, gave orders for lots more."

Society Awheel

Roller Skating Parties a Spring Diversion

SMART New York society has set the pace for roller skating parties. An affair of this kind which is to be given shortly is an "emigrant party," with the host and hostess in a "bargain office" reception room, a customs inspector in attendance and guests in peasant costumes of all nationalities. The peasant feature was selected because it meant that the frocks could be conveniently short for skating, while the bright colors would mingle gayly while the guests whirled to the strains of national airs. The customs part of the program was introduced by one of the prospective guests, as the date of the party happens in the tenth wedding anniversary of the host and hostess. It is the intention of the guests to smuggle in presents through the customs.

As dancing is not feasible on roller skates beyond the lancers or some square dance, races and gymnastics games, with prizes, are part of the program, and the hostess is trying to discover some "stunt" characteristic of each country. The prizes are curios from Russia, Norway and every out of the way corner of the globe.

The New French Collar

ONE of the new ideas in lingerie collars just arrived from Paris is to be seen in the illustration. Cream batiste makes the foundation of the neckpiece, which is inset with Irish lace. The contrast of the white lace and the creamy background is extremely attractive. Such a collar brings a passé blouse or dress waist right up to the fashion minute. And as a coat decoration it is stunning, and the beauty of it all is that you can make it yourself at little expense, although the Parisian model is quite extravagant in price.

Children are no longer willing to enjoy simple pleasures, and it is not difficult to account for the reason, for by inheritance they have come into a veritable kingdom of wants. Motors, expensive dresses, trips abroad, an insatiable desire for variety in attire and elaborate food are all part of the regime which we live in, according as our means permit.

Lack of Imagination In Children

ONE of the saddest signs of the times is the decay of imagination in children. A lamentable feature of our complex social life for some time has been the craving for expensive and artificial pleasures, and this sign of effete mentality is appearing now even in children.

Children are no longer willing to enjoy simple pleasures, and it is not difficult to account for the reason, for by inheritance they have come into a veritable kingdom of wants. Motors, expensive dresses, trips abroad, an insatiable desire for variety in attire and elaborate food are all part of the regime which we live in, according as our means permit.

The children of today are having handed down to them theories of life that depend upon money to make them happy to an extent that is terrible to contemplate. If the mother who gives her child elaborate and costly toys would only look ahead who would pay her innocent little one much trouble of mind and perhaps much deterioration of character. If she would teach him to amuse himself by contriving little games for himself, by weaving his own little dream around a stick or a tin can, she would cultivate something in him that would give him a source of imaginative happiness which would more than make up for the loss of the more costly toys he has brought up. The fewer costly toys he has, the better for him in the long run. He will learn to play the old simple games, to build castles, to fight great battles with wooden swords, to exercise his imagination continually, instead of learning to crave for excitement and now extravagances.

A great deal may be done by a judicious mother who makes up her mind to refuse her child a multitude of toys. She will lay the foundation of a finer and happier character than will be built up by the mother who gives recklessly a store of perishable and expensive playthings.

The Proper Way to Dust

Most Women Think They Know How, but the Question Is, Do They?

IF you were to tell the average housewife that she didn't know how to dust it would call forth an indignant protest, but the fact remains that few women really do know how to dust. Their idea is to take a dry dust cloth and pass it over objects on which the dust has collected. This is not dusting, by dear madam; it is merely changing the position of the offending particles that persist with such determination to settle upon everything.

The proper mode of procedure, the really hygienic way, is to have cheese-cloth dust rugs in sufficient quantities so they may only be used once and then put into the wash. These cloths should not be used dry, but dampened slightly. The moisture will cause all the particles of dust to cling to the rag. The dust cloth should never be made wet enough to cause a "bloom" to come upon the rarest mahogany, but merely made moist.

When house dust contains tubercle bacilli or other disease germs they may remain alive and dangerous for many months, because they are shielded from direct sunlight. But this is not the only reason why house dust favors the development of consumption and other diseases.

When the air that contains dust is breathed the dust is deposited on the lining of the throat and nose, and this delicate lining is irritated and injured in a way that aids the passage of the disease germs through the body. Dust, therefore, should be avoided, and house dust especially. There should be no unnecessary hangings and draperies and no matted down carpets—bare floors and rugs are more hygienic.

Carpets and rugs should be swept with a sweeper and not with a hard broom. Bare floors should be swept with a soft broom or wiped with a moist cloth. Dry cloths, brushes and feather dusters particularly stir up the dust, and the more dust stirred up in the house the more dangerous it is. When a room is swept the windows should be open from the top and kept closed at the bottom. Windows open at the top let the air out, but when opened at the bottom the air blows in and therefore causes the dust that has been raised to blow farther into the house instead of out of it.

Treat New Footwear This Way

BEGIN the care of your new spring shoes in the shoe shop. Insist on having your glass kid shoes thoroughly polished with oil paste before they are sent home. If you wear them just as they are out of the box you will scratch them more in a week than you would in a month if they had been properly polished. Then, unless you have polished wooden floors, tell the dealer to put in "circles" in the heels. These are little pieces of metal which prevent the unsightly "rundown" appearance.

The day you notice your heels retreating run down have them straightened, which will lengthen the life of the shoe.

Buy two good shoe brushes, a box of oil paste and a bottle of sweet oil. See to it that your shoes are cleaned or at least brushed every time you wear them. You need not apply the polish often, but once a week, but then do it thoroughly. Scrub your shoes all over with a damp cloth—wet them dry, then put on the paste and polish.

Use sweet oil for your dull leather and dress shoes. There is a special preparation for suede boots. However, the latter will stay bright for months if rubbed occasionally with a piece of light colored velvet.

Don't omit shoe trees. They cost little and last forever. Every pair of shoes you have should be on shoe trees when not in use. Instead of using the wooden ones for your light slippers take whalebones or corset steels a little longer than the shoes, wind with narrow ribbon and, bending, slip into each slipper. The ends of the steel will press gently against the toe and the back of the shoe, keeping them in shape.

Posy Rings

ENGAGED girls who want to be original in their choice of an engagement ring and whose fiancés are not able to afford a very costly present could do better than to revive the old custom of wearing "posy" rings.

These pretty love gifts were in vogue during the sixteenth, seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, and the posy was inserted inside the ring, often with the initials of the giver and the recipient.

A pretty idea for this form of engagement ring would be a plain gold seal ring with the initials of the recipient's Christian name, and her new surname initial could be added afterward. A ring of this kind would look much better than a cheap solitaire and would, besides, possess a certain old world charm not to be despised in these matter of fact days.

Here are a few points for the would be "posy" ring wearers:

Two hearts are knyt as heaven thought fyt.

'Twas God to thee directed me,
Thy consent is my content,
Not thine nor mine, but ours,
God's gift thou art, my dearest heart.

Resting the Skin

THERE is a famous beauty who has kept her complexion longer than most women through the simple expedient of resting her skin. In speaking of this somewhat novel idea she says:

"The reason women have such racked looking complexions, especially in the spring, is because they do not seem to realize that the skin gets tired along with the rest of the body."

"What are tired wrinkles or that drawn feeling that most of us have when overdoing? Nothing but a tired skin crying out for rest."

"How do I give this rest? That depends on how tired I am."

"If I have been out in a strong wind, for instance, I often rest my skin with a shade of lettuce leaves. I take the big outer leaves of a head of lettuce, dip them in boiling water in which is dissolved a few grains of borax or, better yet, a little cologne and place them over my face as I lie down for a half hour's rest."

"Another way I rest my skin is to wipe it off carefully with a mixture of rosewater and glycerin. This is in proportion of three parts of former to one of latter. This mixture removes dust and germs, yet does not chap the skin as water will."

A PARASOL TIP.

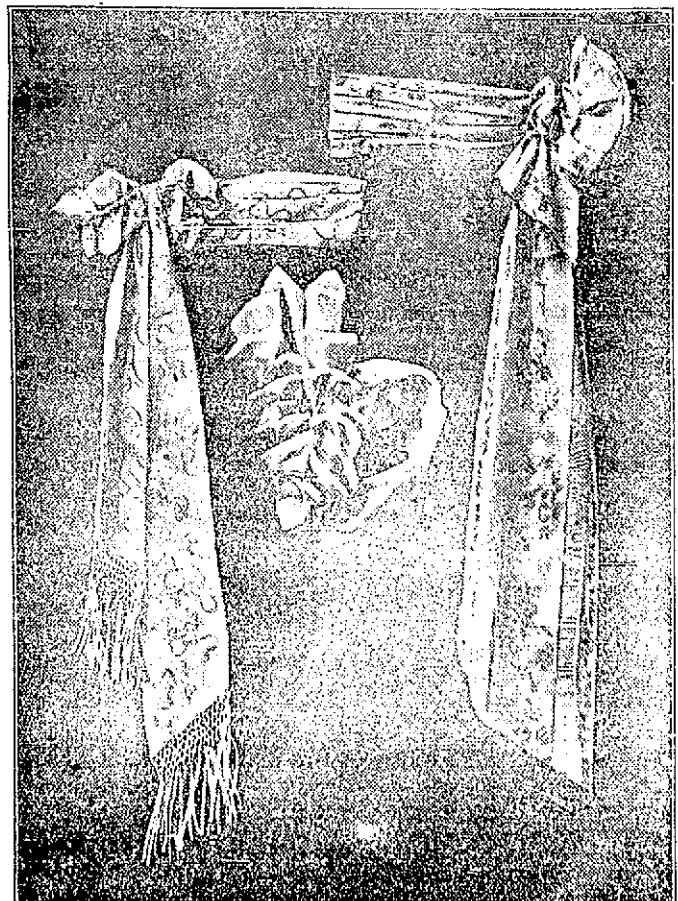

Parasols are to match the gowns this season, whether the material is cotton, linen or silk. Even with an everyday gingham frock the parasol carried with it must be of the same material.

Girls who are expert with their needles could cover their own sunshades if an old frame is available. The cover could be ripped off, one section opened and pressed, and this will serve as a pattern for the new cover. When ripping examine carefully the sewing. At the top the finish may be made exceptionally neat by shirring a little strip of the goods around the handle.

A FATAL TURN.

If Joe's wife hadn't turned to rubber she wouldn't have turned to salt.

The Vogue of Sashes and Girdles

NOW that sashes and high girdles are in vogue again a word of warning should be given the short, plump woman who rushes to fashion's changes without considering whether the latest will be becoming or not. Take, for instance, the very deep girdles which are a vogue of the season and only correct wear for the tall, slim woman. The illustration shows designs that will suit alike the plump and slender figure. One of the belts of the season is the folded girdle of panno-velvet, which is boned to an excessively long point in front. The dressmakers have given it the name of the Elysian girdle or the girdle of Venice. It will be worn on dressy afternoon and evening frocks and will not be separate, but part of the gown.

The flounced summer frock that bids fair to be so popular seems to call for a sash of flowered sprigged design in soft blurred colors, and this touch marks it as emphatically not the thing for the fat or elderly. Age and girth should not be emphasized by sashes.

MAN MAY HAVE BEEN ROBBED

EXTRA

BODY FROM RIVER

At No. Chelmsford Shows Signs of Robbery

A young man camping on the bank of the Merrimack river near Wotton's field in North Chelmsford discovered the body of a man floating in the river at a point opposite the old race course this afternoon. The police were notified and the body had not been identified up to the time of going to press. The man, it was said, was well along in years and weighed in the vicinity of 200 pounds. The body was fully dressed and was found lying face downward near the shore.

Milo Hale telephoned to The Sun office this afternoon that he had seen the body which he said was quite badly decomposed. He said that the man's coat had been pulled over his head and his pockets were turned inside out, giving the appearance of having been rifled. The body was seen several days ago but the person who saw it thought it was a bundle of clothing and did not pay any attention to it.

SEC'Y BALLINGER

Involved in Big Injunction Suit Entered Today

WASHINGTON, April 9.—Declaring that Secretary of the Interior Ballinger because he had been counsel for a number of land claimants in the Silt Indiana reservation in Oregon now declines to give them the benefit of his judgment since becoming secretary and has attempted to delegate to his assistant, Frank Pierce, the duty imposed by law on him and that the latter has decided adversely to them, William D. Bales, Thomas Holverson and Levy M. Gilbert today filed suit in the supreme court of the district of Columbia for injunctions to prevent the execution of the order of Mr. Pierce, the assistant secretary. Bales says he employed Mr. Ballinger in 1908 and that the latter filed in the office of the then secretary of the interior a brief urging that patent be issued to Bales. By alleged irregularities he claims his title to the entry was clouded and Mr. Pierce has rendered against him a decision which is about to become operative in Oregon unless the court prevents its execution.

Bales and the other claimants declare that the law allows an appeal to the secretary, that they are entitled to it and that the action of the assistant secretary is without warrant of law.

When Mr. Ballinger's attention was drawn to the suit he emphatically denied that he had ever been attorney for the claimants or that there was any special reason why Assistant Secretary of the Interior Pierce had handled the cases. The latter had denied that he had ever been attorney for the claimants or that there was any special reason why Assistant Secretary of the Interior Pierce had handled the cases. The latter had denied that he had ever been attorney for the claimants or that there was any special reason why Assistant Secretary of the Interior Pierce had handled the cases.

Regarding the charge that he had been counsel for the claimants the secretary declared that after he had retired to private life from the commission of the general land office his name had been signed to a brief in the cases by J. H. Ballinger, a distant cousin in conjunction with his own signature. The secretary said this was done without his authority and when the matter was called to his attention he so advised the interior department and requested that his name be stricken from the document. The record of the department, he added, showed that this was done. In filing the suit, Mr. Ballinger charged that an attorney for the claimants had "gone out of his way in an attempt to do me an injury by alleging facts he knows to be false."

Continuing, Mr. Ballinger said that the cases had been in Mr. Pierce's hands before he became secretary and had been conducted by the assistant secretary and because they came properly within his jurisdiction. The secretary and

WAGE CONFERENCE

Between Textile Council and the Manufacturers of Fall River

FALL RIVER, April 9.—A conference was held last evening between the executive committee of the textile council and the executive committee of the Cotton Mfg. Assn. to discuss the communication sent by Sec'y Taylor of the Textile Council, February 18 last, to the managers stating the intentions of the Textile unions relative to the wage agreement. The conference lasted about two hours and was confined to a review and discussion of present trade conditions with reference to the amendment to the wage agreement submitted by the council. The manufacturers' committee said it would not accept the amendment in its present form but in an endeavor to arrive at a satisfactory solution will shortly offer a counter proposition for consideration. Both committees were unanimous in the opinion that the good results attained through the wage agreement as far as industrial peace of the city is concerned warrant every effort being made by both sides to arrive at a basis that will be naturally satisfactory to the manufacturers and the operatives and will preserve the principles of a trade agreement.

Secretary Taylor stated that he could not give out any matter relative to the amendment discussed, that it was the property of the manufacturers' association and should be released for publication by the manufacturers if they thought it ready for the press. The manufacturers decline to discuss the details of the plan at present.

The man, according to President Carey, has for several months been in the employ of the International Paper Co. as a spot-

VILLAGE SMITHY

Longfellow's Character Dies at Lynn

LYNN, April 9.—Thaddeus W. Tyler, the original "village smithy," is dead. It was while watching him at work over his forge and anvil that Longfellow was inspired to write:

Under the spreading chestnut tree
The village smithy stands.
Tyler died this morning at his home here, seventy-six years old, after an illness of but four days, with pneumonia. He was a blacksmith for a few years. Not long after he had been immortalized by the poet, he went into the shoe manufacturing business, which he continued to his death. He invented the process of moulting stiflebones for shoes.

Mr. Tyler was a close friend of Longfellow and a frequent visitor at his home after the day's work at the blacksmith shop.

Three children, three grandchildren and one great grandchild survive him.

USED HATPINS

STRIKERS ROUTED BY WOMEN IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, April 9.—While two strike breakers, Peter Carmine of 215 Mulberry street, Manhattan, and Michael Damato, who lives at 132 Elizabeth street, were on their way to the Havemeyer sugar refinery in Williamsburg yesterday they were attacked at North Second street and Kent avenue by three Polish strikers with clubs and bricks.

In a Greenpoint car that came along were Mrs. Jeanette S. Kaplan, the wife of Dr. Alexander S. Kaplan of 49 Seventh street, Manhattan, and Miss Ethel Weissberg of 74 Seventh street. They saw the attack on the strike breakers and alighted from the car to go to their assistance. The Poles turned on them and there was a scrap all around. The women were getting the worst of the encounter when they pulled out their hatpins and gave each of the strikers several jabs in the face. The strikers fled.

Carmine and Damato were badly cut about the head, face and shoulders and the women were also bleeding from slight wounds. All went to the Eastern District hospital for treatment.

She was assisted to her feet and walked into the Caswell Optical Co.'s store in Bridge street and about half an hour later was able to take a car for her home. Spectators said the driver was not to blame.

NIGHT EDITION BY COMMISSION

Change in Government is Suggested for Pittsburg

PITTSBURG, April 9.—A committee on municipal affairs of the chamber of commerce which has spent over a year in thorough study of the local situation and of experiments made elsewhere will report to the chamber next week in favor of a commission form of government for Pittsburg. The movement has no direct connection with the graft exposures. The new plan will probably be submitted to a meeting of allied civic organizations April 18 and a bill presented to the legislature for the amendment of the city's charter to provide for the election of eight city directors and a mayor. Each of the nine members of this board of government will be paid a salary of $8000 in order that they may devote their entire attention to city affairs. The commissioners will be heads of various departments and will also take the place of the present councilmanic bodies. Reports of the various methods of conducting the commission form of government have been received and compiled from Buffalo, Boston, Des Moines, Galveston and other cities where the method has been applied. Those conversant with the investigation say that the commission will cost the city only about $100,000 while the new form of government, it is claimed, would save a municipality the size of Pittsburg about $2,000,000 a year.

MILL CLOSED BY STRIKE

TRENTON, N. J., April 9.—On account of a strike of foreign laborers that began two days ago, the mills of John A. Roblings Sons Co., manufacturers of cables, closed down today. The company announced that work would be suspended indefinitely pending the completion of a revised wage scale in all departments. About six thousand men will be idle.

A score of men who were arrested in last night's bloody riot about the mills were sentenced in police court today. The mills are guarded by a large squad of police. The strikers, who are nearly all foreigners, ask for more pay and declare that under the present system they can earn only $7 a week working 14 hours a day.

BLOW BY FATHER IN AUTO EXPORTS

May Have Made Bertram Spencer Insane

SPRINGFIELD, April 9.—Bertram Spencer's mother says her son's criminal instincts may possibly be traced to a wound on the head he received at the age of 9 during a beating administered by his father. Or, she claimed in an interview yesterday, the confessed murderer of Miss Blackstone may inherit insanity, as his grandfather, William L. Spencer, died in the Middletown (Conn.) insane hospital, and Helen Dale, a daughter of this man's first wife, was confined in an insane asylum four years.

Insanity as Defense
Mrs. Spencer spent some time with her son in the hospital. Her allegations regarding his mental irresponsibility are considered to indicate that the defense of the confessed murderer and robber will be insanity.

Bertram J. Spencer is very tall and has a physique as excellent as his shoulders are square and broad. His features are regular and pleasant and his complexion is good. His hair is a soft brown. His eyes are light blue.

He has been a model son and, husband. Two years ago he married a girl in the hotel in which he was staying. His mother, the happiness of the home was never broken, even for an instant. Family spots were unknown. Spencer came home every night. He never drank. He never smoked. He seldom swore, and none of his companions ever heard him tell an off-color story. He loved his mother. His only ailment from his home occurred when he dropped out to sing with a few of his friends, to go on a errand for his wife, or to get a breath of fresh air. One child was born into the Spencer family a year ago. Another is expected in a week.

A week ago I asked for some candy," said Mrs. Spencer. "But I jumped up immediately, got his hat, and said that he would get it for me. Half an hour later he returned. He had the candy."

"But in that half hour he had murdered one person, attempted to kill another and had committed a robbery. And all the time I never suspected. In the two years we have been married I have never for one moment suspected that he got money in any way that was not perfectly legitimate. But I knew it is not his fault. It is the insane streak which has been in his family for generations."

AGAIN BURNED OUT

William E. Rigg's Home Destroyed by Fire

House, Barn and Shed in Billerica Street and Five Horses Consumed by Flames—Mr. Rigg Lost His Wife and His Home in South Lowell Explosion

The residence of William E. Rigg in Billerica street, Wiggsville, together with the barn and outbuildings and their contents, were destroyed by fire shortly after three o'clock this morning. The fire, the cause of which is unknown, had gained such headway before it was discovered, that it was almost impossible to save anything and Mr. Rigg and his two sons, who were asleep in the house, at the time, had a narrow escape from being burned to death.

When the fire department, which had been summoned by alarms from boxes 315 and 316, arrived on the scene it was found that the buildings were doomed and the firemen could do little other than to pour water into the burning buildings to keep the flying embers from setting fire to buildings in the vicinity.

The owner of the buildings destroyed, Mr. Rigg, is one of the most unfortunate men in Lowell, for besides having lost his property, he lost his home and his wife. The home was a large one and his wife lost her life as a result of the explosion of the magazines in 1905.

Brilliant Illumination
The fire in itself was one of the most spectacular which has occurred in this city for years, for the sky was brilliantly illuminated and the glare could be seen for miles around. One of the peculiar things in connection with the fire, however, is the fact that even though it had gained large proportions it was not discovered until all of the buildings were doomed.

Rigg Fire
A milkman who was delivering milk in Ayer City stated to Chief Hosmer this morning that he saw the flames shooting skyward about 15 minutes before the first alarm was sounded.

The first alarm was from box 315 and was sent in at 3:21 o'clock. Seventeen minutes later an alarm from box 316 was sent in. The second alarm was pulled in by a young man who saw the glare of the blaze from his window, and the youth after pulling in the alarm stayed by the box for almost an hour after he pulled it in. When the electrician went to the box to replace the glass the boy said that it took an awfully long time for the firemen to respond to the alarm, but when he was told that the fire had been out for nearly half an hour he felt relieved.

Property Wiped Out
Prior to the explosion which occurred in July, 1905, Mr. Rigg had a large house, barn and outbuildings in Billerica street, the buildings being situated near the bank of the Concord river. The explosion, however, wiped out his entire property, nothing being left but a pile of debris.

The most unfortunate incident in connection with the explosion was that Mrs. Rigg was killed and the loss of the property could not be compared with her loss.

After the explosion Mr. Rigg erected a one story structure which was used as a home by him and his two sons. The barn, which was about 40 feet, was three stories high and was a large one. In the barn were six horses, several furniture and pleasure wagons, harnesses, a big supply of hay, grain, etc., besides farming implements.

Barn in Flames
When Mr. Rigg and his sons retired for the night everything was apparently secure. Shortly after three o'clock this morning one of the boxes was awakened by the glare of flames through the window of his sleeping room. Jumping out of bed he saw that the barn and several of the outbuildings were rapidly eating their way towards the house. He awakened his father and brother and donning a few articles of wearing apparel ran to the corner of Lawrence and Morton streets and sent in an alarm from box 315.

He then hurried back to the house and assisted by his father, brother and neighbors who had been attracted to the scene attempted to save some of the property. The flames were so large and the heat so intense that it was almost impossible to get near any of the buildings and but few things were saved.

Firemen Worked Hard
Chief Hosmer and the fire department were soon on the scene, and despite the fact that they exerted every effort to save some of the buildings the fire had gained such headway that such a thing was out of the question.

Long before the apparatus reached the scene of the fire the flames were eating their way into the barn and outbuildings. The flames were so large and the heat so intense that it was almost impossible to get near any of the buildings and but few things were saved.

Five Horses Burned to Death
Strenuous efforts were made to save the six horses in the barn, but the fire was so intense that the attempts were futile, for five of them were burned to death and the sixth was burned so badly that it is probably it will have to be killed.

Practically the only things saved were several stables which were in the yard.

While the firemen were working on the flames an alarm from box 315 and 316 was sent in. The second alarm was pulled in by a young man who saw the glare of the blaze from his window, and the youth after pulling in the alarm stayed by the box for almost an hour after he pulled it in. When the electrician went to the box to replace the glass the boy said that it took an awfully long time for the firemen to respond to the alarm, but when he was told that the fire had been out for nearly half an hour he felt relieved.

The fire was set.

Chief Hosmer is unable to state what caused the fire. Owing to the fact that many tramps have been found

ALL TO MOTHER

The Will of Late Yale Football Captain

NEW YORK, April 9.—The will of James J. Hogan, the former Yale football captain and assistant street cleaning commissioner of New York, died here today was written on the back of a bank check, contained just twenty-three words and was one of the briefest documents ever offered for probate here.

"I leave all to my mother," the will read after employing seventeen words to designate Robert T. Hays, Esq., as executor. The petition for probate sets forth that the testator died March 20 last, at Torrington, Conn., and that his estate consists of $2200 in personal property.

IMMIGRANTS TIPPED

THAT NEW YORK IS NOT AN EL DORADO

LONDON, April 9.—Courtney Bennett, British consul general at New York, in his annual report cautions immigrants against assuming that New York is an El Dorado for the workingman. It is not, he says.

"The expenses of living are so high and so constantly rising that a man in regular work in the United Kingdom at lower wages is as well off, if not better off, than his fellow workmen in New York at the higher wages here, while if out of work he is better off at home. It is estimated that to live in decency here a man with a wife and two children must spend $1000 a year."

FUNNY CONTRACT

BROUGHT OUT BY BREACH OF PROMISE SUIT
POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., April 9.—Unusual stipulations in a marriage proposal presented in the supreme court here yesterday when the $50,000 breach of promise suit brought by Miss Mary Horner against Henry Webendorfer was called for trial. Miss Horner is 48 years old and a country housekeeper. Mr. Webendorfer is a wealthy resident of this city, who is a manufacturer in New York city.

Miss Horner accepted Webendorfer's terms of marriage last September and the following month Webendorfer broke off the engagement, writing "the honest kiss you rejected discourages me to continue my suit for your affections."

According to a letter written to Miss Horner by Webendorfer, which was read in court yesterday, a part of the marriage proposal reads: "I will pay you monthly payments of $300 a year and $250 on Christmas. If you are good to me, at my death I will give you my property at Washington and all the streets (Poughkeepsie) and the stables, yielding you an income of $1000."

"This is void, though. If you and I don't get along in this case, I will pay you $5000 at the end of the first year if you and I do decide, and if we live together at the end of five years I will pay you $10,000, and if at the end of five years or at any time after I will pay you $15,000. At our separation I will secure you by a mortgage of $25,000 on an $50,000 clear mortgage of property. On your side you will have to treat me kindly and will have to keep a good table for me."

STATE SENATORS

Graft Charges at Jackson, Miss., Implicate Them

JACKSON, Miss., April 9.—Five warrants charging poker playing were issued today as one of the ramifications of the Bilbo-Dulaney senate bribery investigation. The warrants were for State Senator Charles Engle, Rep. Charles Doherty, Samuel Clark and T. James, both prominent planters, and "Private" John Allen.

Allen, recently before the grand jury which is investigating some phases of the bribery charges, was asked if he knew of any gambling at Jackson during the legislative session. He said that he played poker in Rep. Doherty's room. The others under indictment also made statements to the jury about gambling at Jackson. Poker playing for money is unlawful under the Mississippi code.

The senate today resumed its investigation and refused to permit Senator Bilbo to take the stand immediately to reply to charges made last night that he offered to support an oyster propagation bill for three hundred dollars "expense money." He was told that he must wait until the regular rebuttal period.

R. C. Bowne, a lawyer of Gulfport, testified that a client of his put a claim in Bilbo's hands. Bowne said Bilbo collected $80 and charged $100 for it. Finally Bilbo sent a check for $20 to Bowne who had taken the case up. The check was protested and has not been paid, the witness said.

BOSTON'S MAYOR

BOSTON, April 9.—Mayor Fitzgerald was generous to a particularly bitter opponent today when he appointed former Mayor George A. Hibbard to the office of city collector.

Mayor Hibbard defeated Mayor Fitzgerald in the city election of December, 1907, after a heated campaign. They were again opponents in the city election of January, 1910, although the principal contest was between Fitzgerald and J. J. Storrow, Hibbard polling less than 1700 votes which was a trifle more than Fitzgerald's plurality.

The office of city collector is now held by Charles R. Brown, who was appointed by Mayor Hibbard.

PERU SATISFIED

To Accept Award Made in the Boundary Dispute

WASHINGTON, April 9.—News from Peru is not reassuring. The latest information from Lima is to the effect that Peru still stands ready to accept the award of King Alfonso in her boundary dispute with Ecuador and has not indicated any desire for any other course. She also is insistent in her demand for satisfaction for the outrages perpetrated on the Peruvian consulate in Guayaquil, Ecuador, although it will be recalled that the Ecuadorian legation and consulate in Lima were attacked by Peruvian mobs. Telegrams from Guayaquil received in Lima, it is said, expressing regret for the attack on Peruvians there have had reassuring effect. Up to this time no information has reached the state department, indicating that Peru contemplates sending a commission to Washington to negotiate with Ecuadorian commissioners for an amicable settlement of the differences between the two countries. A despatch from Lima received at the state department states that Peru has just completed negotiations with France for a loan of about $1,700,000.

FATALLY BURNED

Alcohol Explodes at College Girls' Party

NEW YORK, April 9.—Miss Susan Scott Lustgarten, a student at Adelphi academy, Brooklyn, was mortally burned and several other young women seriously burned last night by the explosion of a can of alcohol during a "Black Hand" party given by the college girls at the home of Miss Lustgarten. The other classes in the large study room.

About sixty girls, garbed in sheets and pillow cases, were doing a shadow dance with no light save the burning alcohol mixed with salt. The exploding fluid flew in all directions. A panic followed, and the room in which the party was being held took fire. When the fire department and police arrived Miss Lustgarten was found severely alive, with her clothes burned from her.

The arrangements for the dance and reception were made by the freshmen. Some of the upper class girls, who had scorned his ardent advances. Impulsively, members of Miss Lustgarten's family lifted the cover of the box which she had taken home after a vain attempt to find Miss Cabana. One of the snakes crawled partly out and was jammed back and the box with its live specimens was rushed to the police station, where the snakes were killed. Mike Grotzke, butcher, of No. 11 Second street, Brooklyn.

On the same floor with the Black Hand club, the German society of the academy was holding a reception. On the upper floor the men students of the dramatic society were rehearsing for a play to be given soon. At No. 68 Clifton place, the home of Professor Lawrence, president of the institution, there was a meeting of the professors.

HAD THE SNAKES
AND THESE WERE THE REAL ARTICLES
MANCHESTER, N. H., April 9.—Two writhing adders, each nearly two feet long, formed the contents of a small pasteboard box which Michael Hasselbar, 22 years old, confined to Miss Alice Stuart of 189 Lake avenue with a request to give it to her child, Miss Rosie Cabana, 18 years old, who had scorned his ardent advances. Impulsively, members of Miss Stuart's family lifted the cover of the box which she had taken home after a vain attempt to find Miss Cabana. One of the snakes crawled partly out and was jammed back and the box with its live specimens was rushed to the police station, where the snakes were killed. NEW SPEED RECORDS

Marked Opening of the Los Angeles Motordrome

PLAYA DEL REY, Cal., April 9.—The establishment of many new speed records yesterday marked the opening of the Los Angeles motordrome. Every world's record for a one mile track from one to one hundred miles was broken and five national speedway marks were lowered in the trials and the free-for-all contests.

New mile track records were expected for this is the first board track ever raced on by motor cars. In addition to national records, new marks were also set in stock car events.

The racing was free from accidents. At the end of the 100 mile race a Dorris car, driven by Frank Seifert, turned turtle, but after the car had run into the padlock, Seifert's arms had become numb from the strain and he lost control of the wheel. He was not injured.

The first mile on the track was a record. Caleb Bragg, an amateur, sent the F. I. A. T. 90, around in 37.66. George Robertson was next to be sent away and his big Simplex thundered after the 10 mile record. When he began climbing miles in 38 seconds it was apparent that the record would fall. He finished the 10 miles in 6.31.37. Strang's mark at Atlanta for this distance was 7.01.04. Another world's mile track record and a national speedway mark went glimmering when Barney Oldfield turned loose his 200-horse-power Benz for a mile, making the "pie pan" in 36.22 seconds. This car was never opened to the limit and it is expected that a still lower mark will be set.

Ralph de Palma, in his 190-horse-power F. I. A. T. cut down the 15 mile mark to 5.15.02. He was followed by Ben Kirscher, who cut the two mile record to 1.18.29 in a Darracq. The racing was unusually spirited and every contest was hard fought. The most sensational drive of the day was made by Oldfield. In a Knox, in the 10 miles race for cars with 43-horse power, Oldfield's placement. Getting away to a bad start, due to his position on the extreme inside, Oldfield was an eighth of a mile behind the flying Stoddard-Dayton, with Livingston up, in the first half mile. Hamsue, in the Apperson was running second. Oldfield began his race for the leaders and by the end of the fourth mile was in command, winning handsily in 7.51.2.5. The Apperson was second.

The five mile free-for-all proved a thriller, with De Palma in the F. I. A. T. 90 and Robertson, in the Simplex, racing head and hood for almost the entire distance. The Italian won by a scant length in 3.36.30. The hundred mile race was a fight between Harroun's Marmon, and Seifert's Dorris. The cars were lapped for 85 of the 100 miles. At the end of 90 miles the Dorris crossed the line one foot ahead of the Marmon. Harroun drew away in the last five miles and opened up a

The weather was cold and cloudy and a strong wind was blowing across the track.

S. R. Stevens of Boston was referee. S. A. Butler, chairman of the A. A. A. contest hour, was honorary referee. F. J. Wagner of New York did the starting. An automatic electric timer was used.

HON. CURTIS GUILD

APPEALS FOR THE NATIONALIZATION OF STATUTE LAW

PORTLAND, Me., April 9.—The nationalization of statute law was advocated by Curtis Guild, Jr., of Boston, who was the chief speaker at the annual dinner of the Deering Transportation club last evening. After referring to the laws like the bankruptcy law already in the federal statutes, Mr. Guild said:

"Why should not the development of community of law be carried further in all matters of national moment? It is a better thing to violate a state statute right than to consent to a substantial national wrong. We are ready in war to die, if need be, under one common national flag. Why should we live in peace from living under one common national law?"

Setting forth the benefits to be derived from national divorce and child labor laws the speaker advocated at some length a federal corporation law saying:

"Fair play and the protection of the public demand the establishment of a uniform system of corporation control by expert advisors under the supervision of the national government, applying one law to all states and enforcing the same law from one end of the country to the other."

"Why stop at regulation? Why would it not lend greater stability and uniformity to business if the United States used the common sense of other countries and adopted a single system of incorporation with a national commissioner, for the sake of convenience, in each state?"

COMMANDER PEARY

PHILADELPHIA, April 9.—Commander Robert E. Peary was tendered an enthusiastic reception here yesterday when he delivered his lecture under the auspices of the Geographical society. Governor Stuart presented him with a gold medal on behalf of the society. Capt. Commander Peary, accompanied by Mrs. Peary and Miss Marie Peary, arrived here from Washington and left last night for Montreal.

JOHN B. PUGSLEY LORD KITCHENER

Lowell Has Classy and Classic Pitcher

Will Have Public Reception in N. Y.

SOMERSWORTH, N. H., April 9.—John B. Pugsley, Colby '05, now principal of the Somersworth high school and widely known in New England as a baseball pitcher, will be on the pitching staff of the Lowell team in the New England league during the second half of the season. By the terms of his contract with the Lowell management, Mr. Pugsley will enter upon his duties June 25 and continue with the team until the close.

This will be his first appearance in a New England league uniform. Field Manager Smith of the Lowell team considers, however, that in Mr. Pugsley he has an artist, who will not prove disappointing for the work he has been doing ever since his college days and before has been of a high order.

Mr. Pugsley has been in the game every season since he was a high school boy. He pitched all through his high school career and was captain of the team his senior year. At Colby he was a varsity pitcher four years and captained the team in his junior year. During his college summer vacations he pitched in the Maine league first for Rockland, then successively for Dover, Foxcroft and Hallowell.

After leaving college he pitched two seasons for the Slater A. A. of Webster, Mass., in the Southern Massachusetts league, and two seasons for the Woodstock, Vt., independent team. He returned home from Woodstock last fall in season to pitch the home and away games for Somersworth on Labor Day in the grueling contest with Dover for the county and state championship.

Principal Pugsley has thus put in eight seasons of professional ball and has developed into a hardened and skilled pitcher. He is also a fast field player. At Colby he used to alternate with Pitcher Cooch as shortstop and pitcher. He is a clever and a hard hitter and a good base runner.

In football Mr. Pugsley has also been prominent. He was captain and left end of the Colby team throughout his course and was its captain the last two years.

Mr. Pugsley is the son of George E. Pugsley of this city and was born here 26 years ago. He fitted for Colby in the Somersworth high school. Since his college graduation he has taught as principal for two years at Nichols academy, Webster, Mass.; two years at Black River academy, Ludlow, Vt., and the current year at Somersworth high, his alma mater. He will report for duty with Lowell immediately after the high school commences.

Mr. Pugsley married last November Miss Marion B. McDonald of Ludlow, Vt., a pupil at the academy while he was there as principal.

MAKES FINE SHOWING AT SHORT NOTICE

BROCKTON, April 9.—Tim Sullivan of Newburyport, carded to meet Jack Fitzgerald of Philadelphia in a 12-round bout at the Union A. C. in the Palace rink last night, failed to appear and it was announced that he mixed it up too fast Thursday with Sandy Ferguson and his training quarters in Naples and wasn't in condition to put up a battle.

Andy Morris, who defeated Al Kibick at the Armory A. A. in Boston Tuesday night, was substituted for Sullivan and if any decision had been given by Referee Pat Doherty would have been the winner.

In the first few rounds Morris appeared slow and Fitzgerald's blows had plenty of steam, but after the ninth Fitzgerald dropped the pace and Morris sailed in, upcutting at will and finishing strong. It was a rugged go, with a lot of fighting that pleased the 600 members.

Young Hamilton of Taunton won from Young Bennett of Boston in a 6-round slugfest. Bennett started in strong, but Hamilton bored in steadily and slammed the Boston boy around to his heart's content. At Belmont in Bennett's corner expressed distrust at Referee Doherty's decision in no uncertain terms.

Young O'Brien of Whitman was stopped by Young Mulvihill of Worcester in the first round of the scheduled 6-round bout, Mulvihill sending over a sleep-producer after a shower of punches that dazed the Whitman novice.

FIVE MEN SAVED

Were Picked Up in Dis-mantled Dory

MARBLEHEAD, April 9.—The fish-boat schooner Maxwell, bound from Gloucester to Boston, picked up a dory containing Arthur W. Burnham, Fred A. Landry, William Derover, Henry Levesque and John A. Bert of Salem about four miles outside of Half Way rock this afternoon and brought them into the harbor.

When picked up the dory was being driven out to sea by the northwest gale and the men were having a hard time keeping her afloat. According to Burnham, the men left Salem about 8 a.m. yesterday for a fishing trip in the bay. When off Bakers Island they were struck by a squall, which snapped the mast. They rigged up a distress signal with the broken mast and a rubber coat, which was seen by the Maxwell.

Combination Coal and Gas Crawford Ranges

The Crawford Gas Ovens are safe. They are lighted in a new way; there is no dangerous pilot light and explosions are impossible. This improvement is patented and very important.

The Damper is automatically opened by opening oven door to light the burners, which cannot be lighted until the door is opened.

In these Gas Ovens there is an extra set of burners at the top for broiling; a great advantage over the ordinary gas oven, insuring better broiling and great convenience.

The Oven Bottoms and Racks are cast iron, and the outer walls are triple—an interlining of asbestos between two sheets of iron, which assists to retain the heat.

The use of these Gas Ovens does not interfere in any way with the operation of the coal range—both can be used at the same time.

6 O'CLOCK A NEW WAR-SHIP

Another Torpedo Boat Destroyer Launched at Quincy

QUINCY, April 9.—First to be launched of the new enlarged type of ocean-going torpedo boat destroyers, the destroyer Perkins was sent down the ways into Fore river at 10.30 a. m. today from the yards of the Fore River Shipbuilding Co. She touched the waters with her bows still shedding the liquid used in the christening by Mrs. Larz Anderson of Brookline and Washington. The Perkins is named after Mrs. Anderson's father, the late Commodore George Perkins. Present at the launching ceremonies were official representatives of the United States and Argentine navies. The launching of the Perkins today marked a new stage in torpedo boat destroyer construction. That this new type will be a general one is shown in the fact that several of the principal powers have laid down similar vessels since plans of the Perkins and her two sister destroyers now building here were announced. Unlike other destroyers the Perkins will be able to keep always with the battleship fleet. Heretofore the little destroyers have been unable to venture far from shore. Despite the more generous dimensions the Perkins will attain speed in excess of 30 knots an hour, it is said. The Perkins is the first like vessel to be fitted with American reversible turbine engines, of which she will have two, capable of developing 6000 horse power each. Her boilers of a new combination type will be fed by oil fuel.

Base Ball Fans Are in High Feather Today

NEW YORK, April 9.—With one eye on the weather and the other on the clock, thousands of baseball-ravenous New Yorkers put in the hours anxiously before the calling of play for the first time this season at the Polo grounds this afternoon. The game between Yale university and the Giants as the New York Nationals are still affectionately called offered the fans of any sort this year and despite the rather forbidding skies and the chill of an April cold spell they began flocking early towards the upper end of Manhattan Island. The cold didn't appear to lessen the agility of the leaguers who came home from their long training trip in fine condition. Manager McGraw declared. The collegians were confident of making an even better showing than last year against the New Yorkers and there was every promise of an interesting game.

ONE MAN KILLED

By Cave-in at Roxbury, Mass.

BOSTON, April 9.—Two men working in trenches in different sections of Roxbury yesterday were buried through the caving in of material, receiving injuries that resulted in the death of one, while the condition of the other is critical.

Jeremiah Messero, 43, of 36 Burrill street, died at the City hospital at 6 o'clock last evening from the effects of the injuries he received when a ton of earth fell upon him in an excavation on South Huntington Avenue early in the afternoon.

The man's head and one arm showed above the heap of earth when assistance reached him, but he was unconscious when taken out and remained in this condition up to the time of his death.

Timothy Carney, 70, of 79 Heath street, an employee of the sewer department, was completely covered by a mass of earth and stones that fell in upon him, working at the bottom of an excavation on Summit avenue, near Ruggles street at 9 o'clock yesterday morning. Immediately after the accident other workmen dug him out and he was taken to the City hospital. The physicians there found that his skull was fractured, and say his condition is critical.

IS REVOLUTIONARY

USE OF INJUNCTIONS IN LABOR DISPUTE SO CHARACTERIZED

PHILADELPHIA, April 9.—"The modern use of the writ of injunction especially in labor disputes, is revolutionary and destructive of popular government," declared Andrew Furuseth of Washington, D. C., in a paper read today before the American Academy of Political and Social Science at its annual meeting. Various members and invited guests discussed the scope and limits of the injunction and among the speakers was Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor.

Mr. Furuseth, in discussing the alleged misuse of the equity power in the issuing of injunctions, said the labor unions contend that equity power and jurisdiction has been so extended that it is "endangering constitutional liberty, the personal liberty of the individual citizen."

"We have escaped from despotic government by the king," he continued, "We realize that after all he was but a man; are we going to permit the growing up of a despotic government by the judges? Are not they also men?"

SEVEN SUDDEN DEATHS

After Drinking Whiskey at a Westerly, R. I. Bar

It is Believed That Whiskey Was Poisoned Unknown to Seller or Buyer and Rigid Inquiry is Being Made

WESTERLY, R. I., April 9.—Whole-sale poisoning, possibly accidental, possibly malicious, is hinted at in the inquiry into the deaths on Thursday of Charles R. Hood and his father-in-law, Henry Larrow. These men, it is believed, died as the result of drinking whiskey that had been poisoned. The report of Coroner Brown which is to be made next Monday is awaited with great interest inasmuch as it is believed that it may find that Hood and Larrow were the victims of a double murder.

During the past week there have been no less than seven sudden deaths in this city. In general these cases were mystifying to the physicians, although on the death certificate "heart disease" was given as the cause. There are some physicians in the city, however, who believe that nearly all of these sudden deaths were due to drinking liquor. Further than this these physicians also believe—and every attempt is being made to determine—that those persons who have died suddenly had purchased whiskey from a certain bar and that the liquor in some way unknown to either seller or buyer, had been mixed with poison.

POST OFFICE ROBBERS ARRAIGNED

RICHMOND, Va., April 9.—Eddie Fay and Dick Harris, charged with having committed the sensational postoffice robbery here, declined to make any plea when arraigned in the federal court today, and Judge Waddill entered the formal plea of not guilty. Real Estate Dealers

Real estate men, after doctors and lawyers, are those chiefly affected by reports of "line busy."

This difficulty is particularly noticeable in the Spring and Fall.

It is caused by insufficient provision for telephone ingress.

If one door were not sufficient to admit the clients crowding to your office, the probabilities are you would enlarge it or add another. The same reasoning should apply to your telephone service. Calls to your offices are like clients seeking admission. If they cannot get in they are apt to go elsewhere.

It is not necessary to double your expense to double your telephone service. We can give you service to meet your rush needs, whether this rush lasts for a year, a month, or a day, and at slight additional expense.

For example: A receiving line will provide an extra telephone entrance to your office and be of great service in handling incoming calls. Or, if the rush period only covers a few days, we can install an extra telephone on a day-to-day service basis.

These are only two of many possible suggestions. We shall be glad to apply these or others to your specific case if you will call the Local Manager. We have experts who will analyze your needs and advise you how to meet them. There will be no charge for this analysis. The soundest test of good business is a satisfied subscriber, paying for what he gets, and getting exactly what he needs.

THE POLICE PENSION LAW.

The action of the police board in retiring five men on pension has been unfavorably commented upon in some quarters, and the board is criticized as if it were responsible for the law. The law is on the statute books and it is the duty of the board to administer that and all other laws that apply to the department. The men retired had reached a stage at which they were incapacitated for ordinary police duty. They might serve as watchmen but are not needed in that capacity. The board of police, desiring to keep up the efficiency of the department, felt it necessary to retire them, and in so doing the board simply did its duty to the men and to the city. Two good men would have been worth any four of them during the past few years. If there is any ground for criticism as a result of retiring officers unfit for duty, it should be directed to the men who passed the police pension law in the legislature and the men who subsequently as members of the city council adopted it.

It is possible that the pension list may in time become a burden to the city; but the only remedy for that is to repeal or modify the law. The Sun never favored the present law and believes now as formerly that a pension should be paid only on account of permanent disability resulting from injury sustained in the service. There is here an object lesson in the necessity of selecting conservative men for the city council as otherwise the adoption of permissive acts of this kind may seriously affect the financial condition of our city in the future.

THE POLICE BOARD APPOINTMENT.

To fill the vacancy soon to occur in the police board by the expiration of Mr. Stearns' term, Mayor Mehan has appointed John J. Mullaney, a life-long friend, an ex-councilman and a young man whose capability cannot be questioned.

It is always the case when such appointments are announced that there will be criticism from some quarter. It will be said that the mayor might have made a better choice, that such and such a man would make a better police commissioner. The people who talk this way do not know Mr. Mullaney, and yet they are setting their judgment against that of the mayor who does know him and who can vouch for his honesty, his ability and fitness for the position.

It is not always possible nor is it desirable to appoint to public office only those men who by long experience as public servants have demonstrated their honesty and capability. Such a policy would bar new men, would give us a lot of official barnacles and build up a privileged office-holding aristocracy.

Public sentiment as expressed by individual criticism and as voiced by some newspapers is not infrequently wrong in condemning such appointments before the officials have had a chance to prove their worth. Those who remember the appointment of the late Tom Farrell as chief of the fire department may recall that he was ridiculed in the press as wholly unfitted for the position, but yet Lowell has never had his equal as fire chief. When Mr. Boulger was appointed to the police board, we remember also that the appointment was criticized in certain quarters, but yet nobody can deny that Mr. Boulger has made a good and capable commissioner.

We do not hear any severe criticism of the mayor's choice of Mr. Mullaney but we mention these facts to show that in such cases a good deal of unjust criticism is leveled at the appointee. We recognize the fact that Mr. Mullaney is honest and otherwise well qualified to fill the office in the most satisfactory manner. That is all that can be expected of any police commissioner, and we wish him all possible success in his new office.

TO BRIDGE EAST MERRIMACK STREET.

In a community in which the idea of "the city beautiful" seems to have taken root, it is natural that some surprise should be felt at the proposition of the Massachusetts company to connect their mills on opposite sides of East Merrimack street by two overhead bridges. If it were proposed to bridge a back street the public might not regard the proposition with such dismay; but to bridge over one of the main thoroughfares in full view of the principal square and the business centre of the city is certainly one that cannot be regarded as in accord with the prevailing ideas of public progress or municipal aestheticism. Where the big billboards are tabooed, where overhead wires are ordered underground, and where all street obstructions in front of buildings have been outlawed, how shall we regard a project for mill bridges spanning a public street?

Of course the people of Lowell do not want to block the progress of the Massachusetts company or any other enterprising company for that matter; but the company should remember that the matter of bridging over one of the principal streets is a most extraordinary undertaking. The building ordinance would not permit it, so that the question will probably have to go before the city council for decision if the company adheres to the plan.

A bridge or bridges of the kind proposed would be a menace to public safety, and if at any time a lump of ice or snow, a board of any other part of the structure, loosened by the storm, fell to the street the result might be very serious. Then, too, if it caught fire the whole structure might come down to block the street or spread the fire to other buildings.

The Massachusetts company is building a big storehouse on Bridge street and a big mill on East Merrimack street. These buildings will not improve the appearance of the streets on which they are located. To go further and throw two bridges across East Merrimack street would make matters still worse. We do not believe that there will be any objection to a tunnel under the street to connect the mills on opposite sides. The privilege of constructing such a tunnel, we believe, is as much as the company should ask, for even that may inconvenience the city at some future day.

The tunnel would be safer and better for all concerned and unlike the overhead bridge it could never be injured by storms or fires. We believe the engineering difficulties of constructing a tunnel to serve the same purpose as the bridges are not insuperable. The tunnel might cost more but its solidity and permanency would warrant the expenditure.

SEEN AND HEARD

It was at a hotel in the eastern part of the state and several traveling men were sitting in the office, when in came a stranger, evidently himself a traveling man, but not the ordinary runner content to mind his own business and let others do the same. Oh no, this man was one of those men who enter a room with a curious everybody's business expression, and no sooner was he seated than he began to look around with a question mark in his eye. Sitting just the other side of him was a large, well dressed, conservative appearing man, quiet almost retiring (for a runner) and the newcomer seemed to fight shy of asking him a question, but he shortly went the rounds of the other men, and having no more worlds to conquer, he turned to the man at his side and said in a most fascinating voice, "Ah, dry goods?" The other man merely winked an eye, laid his hand on his chest and said, "No, circus." Now in order to appreciate the joke one should see the man. The new comer was rather dazed and began at once to make comments upon the size of the town and the lack of interest in anything of this kind, saying he should hardly think that it would pay to absorb such a small place. "Oh yes," said the other, "you should see the people turn out to Barnum and Bailey, or to four paughs." The men who were sitting around were as impassive as American Indians, the man who was supposed to represent the "world's greatest" was as serious as a judge, and that other man who was afflicted with an over developed bump of curiosity, just swallowed it all and if you knew the town and the man, you would realize what a very stupid man he must have been to take it in as he did and he was from New York too; but not much used to the ways of Mainelands—Portland Express.

LINES FROM AN UNCLAIMED RIB
O, unknown man whose rib I am,
Why don't you come for me?
A lonely, homesick rib I am,
That would with others be!
I want to wed—
There now, it's said!
(I won't deny and fib)—
I want my man to come at once and claim
His rib!

Some men have thought that I was theirs.
But only for a bit;
We found out soon it wouldn't do;
We didn't seem to fit.
There's just one place,
The only space
I'll fit—(I will not fib)
I want my man to come at once and claim
His rib!

The Range that "Makes Cooking Easy"

Skits, "The Pianophiles," comprising nine expert pianists, pleasing vocalists, clever dancers and unique entertainers. In the scenic setting of an elaborate piano parlour on Fifth Avenue, New York, four clerks and a department manager are discovered, killing time in the absence of customers, by playing on five pianos at the same time. While they are thus engaged, in walk four young ladies, dressed in the height of fashion, who announce in song, that they are on a shopping tour, and have dropped in to buy a piano. Waited on by the four clerks, who, in the midst of their song, play on various pianos, an infectious catchy actor selection is rendered, rivaling in originality and tunefulness of famous "Floradora" sextet. Then, seating himself at the grand piano which occupies the centre of the stage, the manager plays an encore, which is participated in by the entire company, men and women, seated at each piano. The effect of nine pairs of hands playing on five pianos can better be imagined than described. The musicians are all finished pianists and singers, chosen from the best musical circles of New York and Boston, and the quartet of singing girls is said to be the prettiest in vaudeville. Their gowns and hats are the latest word in fashions, and come from a prominent Fifth Avenue firm. James S. Deviline and Miss Mae Ellwood are most entertaining in their comedies, "The Girl From Tonkers," "The heroine is a girl. Ladies, who, when surprised in a bachelor's apartment, pretend that she is a simple maiden from the country, who has wandered into the wrong apartment, by mistake. She succeeds in convincing the gay bachelors by her 'taking' ways and quietly annexes his valuables while he is making love to her. When she finally makes her exit, she takes even his overcoat with her. The sketch is brightly written and splendidly acted. A novel and picturesque act is given by Samoroff and Conia, in a Russian character sketch, including the typical songs and dances of Russia. There is also some clever acrobatic work, and an exhibition by two well-trained trick dogs, Roland Carter & Co., after "Vacation Days," a comedy conception that is highly original and novel in a novel setting that represents a prison interior, the characters being the warden and two prisoners. George Baron, the favorite English character singer, will render a number of his most popular song successes. The Lesons, Australian jugglers, are astonishing performers, their program being replete with new and startling feats. Koester and Dunn are a first class team. Their songs are catchy, and they are marvellously skilful dancers. The show closes with a series of the latest moving pictures.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

The excellence of the bill at the Academy of Music this week has drawn crowds to that cosy playhouse, which proves that the patrons appreciate a good thing when they see it. And the management will keep up the good work by presenting on Monday, Cornelia Roberts & Co. in a great comedy sketch of stage life, and George Nagle in a little bit of everything. Mae Dagshaw will return with some of the songs that have made her so popular, together with new moving pictures including a biograph. Admission, 5 and 10 cents.

THEATRE VOYONS

"The Flower of the Ranch," the feature at the Theatre Voyons today, is one of the most pleasing western subjects shown in a long time. Its plot deals with cowboys, a wealthy easterner and the flower of the ranch, a milk and honey girl. During the story, a lively chase ensues between the cowboys and the Easterner in his auto and of course the cowboys win. The Biograph subject is also taken in the far west and its scenic settings are a decided novelty. Tomorrow an unusual concert will be given, the pictures being the very best and most released for Sunday showing and the songs well sung and just the kind that please. On Monday the feature will be a very interesting Pathe Film d'art.

FOREIGN TRADE

IN AUTOMOBILES AMOUNTS TO $1,600,000 A MONTH

The foreign trade of the United States in automobiles now amounts to a million dollars a month, or 12 million dollars per annum, of which sum about 4 millions are imports and 8 millions exports. Ten years ago the trade in automobiles was not of sufficient value to justify the bureau of statistics of the department of commerce and labor in making a separate record of either the imports or exports, the few automobiles entering or leaving the country being included under the miscellaneous class of "All other articles." In July, 1901, however, the bureau began to record the exports, which in the fiscal year 1902 amounted to about 1 million dollars, and since that time the value of automobiles and parts thereof exported to foreign countries has been in round terms 20 million dollars, of which total about 25 millions has developed in the 3 years ending with December, 1903, with a prospect that the fiscal year 1904 will show an export record of fully 8 million dollars.

In imports the record was not established until July, 1905, when the total of automobiles and parts imported to 4 million dollars. In the fiscal years 1906 and in 1907 over five millions, but falling below that figure in succeeding years, making the total imports for the 5 years ending December, 1909, for which a record exists about 18 million dollars of automobiles and parts thereof. The shipments of automobiles and parts thereof to Alaska, Hawaii and Porto Rico are not included in the figures quoted above, but amount in the past 5 years to about 2 million dollars, making the total value of the automobiles passing in and out of ports of the United States in the past 5 years about 45 million dollars.

The imports are chiefly from France, Italy, Germany and the United Kingdom, and the exports to practically every country in the world, though the largest number go to Canada, the United Kingdom, Mexico and Australia. The number sent to Canada in the fiscal year 1909 was 1230, valued at $1,457,129; to England 500 machines, valued at $1,673,314; to France 201 machines, valued at $613,692; to Mexico 200 machines, valued at $252,462; and to Australia 127 machines, valued at $81,426. The prices of these sent to foreign countries are, as a rule, higher than that of the machines sent to Canada, Mexico and Australia, the average price of those sent to France being over $2000 each, according to the prices and numbers of machines reported to the bureau of statistics; those to England average nearly $3000 a piece; those to Canada about $1200 and Mexico about $1400 each; and those to Australia less than $650 each.

The total number of automobiles exported in the fiscal year 1909 was, according to the bureau of statistics' figures, 2184, valued at $6,387,021, an average value of about $1700 for a machine, and the number imported 1624, valued at $2,956,391, showing also an average of about $1750 for each machine. The distribution of automobiles extends to all parts of the world, the number of countries named by the bureau of statistics as destination of automobiles exported in the fiscal year 1909 being not less than 50 and including India, China, Dutch East Indies, Japan, Canary Islands, Egypt, French and British Africa, South American countries, Central American States, West India Islands, Gibraltar and Portugal. The figures for the calendar year are larger and show also higher prices, the number of machines exported in the calendar year 1909 being 3686, and the total value being $8,889,931, an average of nearly $2400, these figures including only the shipments of machines to foreign countries, and not including the shipments to our non-contiguous territory, or the parts of machines which are included in the grand total stated below in comparing our own exports of automobiles with those of other countries.

France leads the world as an exporter of automobiles, with the United States second in rank. Statistics compiled from the official publication of the countries named show that the exports of vehicles of this class in the latest year for which details are at hand were: from France, in 1908, $24,680,000; the United States, in the calendar year 1909, $8,687,397; the United Kingdom, in 1909, $7,610,267; Italy, in 1908, $5,533,000; and Germany, in 1908, $3,031,000.

THOS. F. WALSH SEWER MATTERS

"Silver Mine King" Dies
in Washington

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 9.—Thomas F. Walsh died at his home here at 11:30 o'clock last night. Death was due to a growth in his lungs, the result of an injury received years ago when Mr. Walsh was a miner in the west. Although the "silver mining king," as Mr. Walsh was known, had been ill for the past three months, the end came suddenly and peacefully. He died in his palatial Massachusetts avenue home here, whither he had returned several weeks ago after a long illness in the south in search of health. He was surrounded when he died by the immediate members of his family, his wife, daughter and son-in-law, Edward B. McLean and by three physicians, Dr. Mitchell of this city and Doctors Guthrie and Finney of John Hopkins university. He will be buried in Rock Creek cemetery in this city, by the side of his only son, who lost his life in an automobile accident in Newport, R. I., several years ago. At his own request the funeral ceremonies will be simple. They will be conducted by the Masonic order and will be held Sunday afternoon.

Thomas F. Walsh was born in Ireland in 1851. He was educated in the public schools and early in life was apprenticed to a wheelwright. When he was 19 years old he came to the United States, going almost directly to Colorado, where he made his fortune in the development of mines.

In 1879 he was married to Miss Carrie B. Reed. He was named as one of the commissioners to the Paris exposition in 1900 and had been otherwise signally honored by his government.

Mr. Walsh, always a genial host and fond of company, was a member of a number of clubs and belonged to several scientific societies. In the immediate past he developed a keen interest in aviation and was the leading figure in the effort to have the international aviation meet held in the national capital.

The tragic death of his only son came some years ago, was a most severe shock to Mr. Walsh and one which he never fully recovered. The boy was killed in an automobile accident, which injured his sister, now Mrs. Edward McLean.

Considered by Committee Last Night

The committee on sewers, Alderman Dexter, chairman, met last night at city hall, and gave a hearing to a number of petitioners. Following the hearing a business meeting was held and the following recommendations were made.

Jackson, Palmer and others, that a sewer be laid in Cumberland road from Fisher street to Farmland road.

Arnold B. Brown and others that a sewer be laid in Front street from the present sewer westerly to Courtney lane.

Richard Sykes and others, that a sewer be laid in Rockingham street from Lawrence street to Roper street.

Arnold B. Brown and others that a sewer be laid in Bond street from Stevens street westerly about 170 feet.

P. J. Byrne and others that a sewer be laid in Plummer avenue from East Merrimack street to Andover street.

The committee considered at considerable length the petition of James and Humphrey O'Sullivan for the lowering of the Worthen street sewer. It was agreed that this sewer should be lowered, but in the absence of an estimate as to cost, it was voted to lay the petition on the table.

Etta Abbott and others who petitioned for an abatement of sewer assessments in Fruit street were given leave to withdraw.

ACCEPTS PARISH

Fr. McNamara Will Establish in Pelham

Rev. John J. McNamara, for more than seven years assistant to Rev. Fr. Schofield, pastor of St. John's church, North Chelmsford, and of St. Catherine's church, Graniteville village, Westford, has accepted the position of the new parish created in the New Hampshire diocese by Bishop Guertin.

REV. JOHN J. McNAMARA

The new parish includes Salem, North Salem, Pelham, and Canobie Lake, N. H. Fr. McNamara will begin his work in the New Hampshire parish May 20. His headquarters will be in Salem, N. H., where a house has been secured for a parochial residence.

There are no Catholic churches in the new parish. Masses have been celebrated at Canobie Lake by Rev. Fr. Hannon at which Lowell, Nashua and other summer residents in that section attended.

Beginning May 20 next, mass will be celebrated in a hall in Pelham, N. H., at 9 a. m. Sundays by Rev. Fr. McNamara and at 10.30 a. m. Sundays he will celebrate mass at Canobie Lake.

Fr. McNamara was born near Glasgow, Scot., but came with his parents to Rochester, N. H., when a boy. He was educated in the public and parochial schools in Rochester and later studied in the preparatory school of the Christian Brothers in that city. He was graduated from St. Anslem's college, Manchester, N. H., in 1897. He pursued his philosophical and theological studies in the Grand seminary in Montreal and was ordained as a priest in December, 1902, in St. James' cathedral, Montreal, by Bishop Edmond of Valleyfield, Que.

He was assigned to duty in North

Chelmsford, Jan. 2, 1903, and has been in continuous service in that parish since that time. The parish of which Fr. Schofield is pastor, includes nearly all the villages of Chelmsford and the towns of Westford, Dunstable, Tyngsboro and Carlisle to Concord railroad station. Fr. McNamara has been a willing worker under Fr. Schofield and is popular with members of St. John's parish.

Fr. McNamara's parents, two sisters and a brother are residents of Rochester, N. H.

VAHEY TO STICK

Will Not be Withdrawn From Contest

BOSTON, April 9.—James H. Vahey will not be withdrawn from the contest for the democratic nomination for governor unless it can be pointed out to him that there is a greater demand for another candidate.

This is practically the attitude that he will take in a formal statement on his position to be issued today.

Mr. Vahey will state that it is not his purpose to write the democratic party by holding out against Congressman-elect Eugene N. Foss or any other candidate. He proposes to make it plain, however, that in his opinion no other candidate nominated by the party can possibly win except with his support.

Mr. Vahey has told his friends that Mayor Fitzgerald has shown a sudden change of front on the gubernatorial situation since he was re-elected. He says that before the city election Mayor Fitzgerald had told everybody that in his opinion that he, Vahey, should have the nomination.

The candidate for governor stated to a reporter that he would be perfectly willing to sit down in conference with the democratic leaders of the state and discuss the situation.

It is about time, though, said he, "that the democrats of the state be given a chance to say whom they want for governor. I don't think that any one leader has a right to say who should be the choice of the party for governor."

HUNG BY LEG

Lineman Killed in Mid-Air at Milton

BOSTON, April 9.—The body of a man, the life taken out of the form through an electric current of 2400 volts, hung by one leg, away back and forth on a cable high above the street fronting the hose house at East Milton last evening.

Then came action by the firemen of the district, who put up a ladder, wound a rope about the body of Peter J. Mullen, a telephone lineman belonging in East Braintree, and slowly lowered the remains to the street that it might be given over to the charge of an undertaker, for physicians who arrived on the scene announced that death must have been instantaneous.

The deadly high tension electric wire that had its place upon the pole along with the telephone cable, was the cause of the electrocution. Mullen, who was 30 years old, had gone up the pole to repair the telephone cable. They say that he had full knowledge that above him the current of death lurked, but he may have forgotten its presence. In the interest that he gave the job before him one hand was placed upon the high tension wire, and he died without emitting a sound.

The street below was lighted up with the flash that came as the voltage was switched through his body; then the clutch was released and he fell upon the telephone cable in such a manner that as he passed across it his right leg caught on one of the wire fastenings, and he hung head downward, held in place by the small implement alone.

Mullen was employed by the New England Telephone and Telegraph Co. and was regarded as an expert. He was unmarried and resided at 11 Allen street, East Braintree.
